Saunders Is Bank Superintendent; Tilley Engineer

Conn W. Moose of Omaha Replaces Herdman in Insurance Department — Felton Continues as Agriculture Director— Lobdell Again Roads Bureau Chief.

Governor - elect Roy L. Cochran Monday announced appointment of heads of four major state departments and one bureau chief, bringing to six the appointees named since election.

The appointments:

Ben N. Saunders, superintendent of banks:

A. C. Tilley, state engineer.

Conn W. Moose, director of insurance.

Dwight Felton, director of agriculture.

A. T. Lobdell, chief bureau of roads and bridge.

Ben N. Saunders, cashier of the Plainview State bank, was named superintendent of banks under the incoming administration, succeeding E. H. Luikart. A. C. Tilley, maintenance engineer in the state highway department, was elevated to state engineer and head of the department of roads and irrigation succeeding Cochran in the post he held nearly 12 years until he resigned to run for governor.

Lobdell Renamed.

A. T. Lobdell, named acting state engineer by Governor Bryan following Cochran's resignation, was renamed chief of the bureau of roads and bridges, the position he held under Cochran.

Conn W. Moose. Omaha insurance man, will serve as director of the insurance department, succeeding Lee Herdman, who has served in that capacity under Governor Bryan since 1931.

Dwight F. Felton, director of the department of agriculture and inspection, was named to succeed himself in the position he has held during the last two administrations.

Governor-elect Cochran is en route to Washington to confer with Harry Hopkins, federal relief administrator, and in Cochran's absence Tilley released the formal announcement of the appointments Monday morning, together with brief biographical sketches of the appointees.

The announcement contained no mention of other appointments to

Robinson, Kidnap Suspect, Hunted At Davenport, Ia.

DAVENPORT, Ia., Dec. 17 — (AP)—An identification by two persons of police photographs of Thomas Robinson, jr., Stoll kidnaping suspect, was grounds for an intensive search being conducted today for a missing rented automobile and a driver said to be a man disguised in feminine clothing.

The Robinson photos were pointed out by Fred H. Willey, manager, and Walter Snyder, employe, of the Davenport office of the Tri-City Drivurself system, as the same person who came to their establishment Saturday seeking an auto. Willey said a phone call from a masculine voice with a southern accent inquired the rates for rented cars. A half hour later he was surprised, he said, to have a caller in women's clothes arrive for the auto, and refused the car when the party had no driver's license.

Later an auto was obtained by a party identified as the same applicant from the Moline offices of the firm, with a Fulton, Ill., home address given. When the car was not returned Sunday a check found the Fulton address fictitious.

County Farmers Receive $11,652 Wheat Checks

Wheat checks totaling $11,652 have arrived for immediate distribution to Lancaster county farmers. The checks include second 1933 payments and first 1934 payments and bring the grand total of wheat benefits in Lancaster county to $176,514. In addition farmers have previously received $225,000 in corn-hog checks, making a total of $401,514 which farmers in the county have received in benefit payments.

Second corn-hog payments, expected during November, have not arrived but officers of the county corn-hog association continue to hope they will be here before Christmas.

PRESIDENT CONN, WAYNE, OPPOSES LEWIS' CHARGES

Presents Affidavits In Support From Nearly All of Faculty.

Members of the state normal board, after finishing up their routine business Monday forenoon, recessed until 1 p. m., before going ahead with the scheduled further hearing into personal allegations preferred by Dr. J. G. W. Lewis, head of the social science department in the Wayne state teachers' college, against President U. S. Conn of that institution.

The board was ready at 11:30 a. m., to resume its inquiry into the matters which Lewis laid before it in a lengthy manuscript at its special meeting held at Wayne, October 25, but delayed until afternoon to give the complainant a chance to be present.

Weighty Counter Showing.

President Conn, accompanied by Attorney Fred Berry of Wayne, a former member of the board, was on hand with a voluminous counter showing in the way of affidavits from numerous individuals, a petition in his behalf signed by 49 of the 55 faculty members at the school, and personal letters from three of the other members supporting Conn and criticising Lewis.

The board also had memorials and endorsements before it, defending Conn and praising his administration of the school, from the Wayne city council, the young men's business club of that city, the Kiwanis club, the women's professional club, and the American Legion post.

Miss Sara Friend Dies Monday Morning

Had Lived In Lincoln 42 Years; Funeral Will Be Held Wednesday.

Miss Sara Friend, 79, resident of Lincoln for 42 years, died at her home, 1625 D street, at 8:20 o'clock Monday morning. Funeral services will be held at Hodgman's chapel at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon with interment at Wyuka cemetery.

Miss Friend was born in Alsace-Lorraine on September 23, 1855 and came to the United States at the age of 17. She was a member of B'Nai Jeshurun congregation.

She is survived by three sisters, Miss Pauline Friend and Mrs. Max Frosh of Lincoln and Mrs Mark Levy of Hastings; and a brother, Morris Friend of Lincoln.

Holdups Get $15,000, But Overlook $25,000

SYLACAUYA, Ala., Dec. 17 — (AP)—Their faces plastered with adhesive tape in lieu of masks, two men today held up the City National bank here and escaped with $15,000, but in their hurry missed a $25,000 payroll.

BURNS' ARREST MAY SOLVE BIG BROOKLYN RAID

Indiana Convict Whom Dillinger Helped to Free Held in Chicago.

BELIEVED AIDE IN $427,000 ROBBERY

U. S. Officer Says Case Should Be Cleaned Up in 24 Hours.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(AP)—Solution of the $427,000 armored truck robbery in Brooklyn last August was predicted today by Chief Postal Inspector Walter Johnson as a result of the arrest of Joseph Burns, 53, Dillinger gangster.

At the same time Supervising Police Capt. John Stege announced that the escape of John Dillinger from the Crown Point, Ind., jail last March 3 had been "solved," and that the inside story of the break of Burns and nine companions from the Michigan City, Ind., prison in 1933 was "practically cleared up."

"We are quite certain Burns is one of those connected with the Brooklyn job," said Inspector Johnson.

Largest Cash Holdup.

The Brooklyn robbery, staged August 21, netted the largest cash haul of any holdup in American criminal history. A dozen gunmen took part in it, but none had been apprehended until Burns was seized here.

Inspector Johnson would not say whether Burns named any others in the Brooklyn holdup. However, he said, "This case should be cleaned up in 24 hours."

Burns was arrested Sunday in a south side flat here, where he was living with his sister. Two machine guns and three other weapons were found in the flat, but Burns opened the door meekly.

Story Of Escape.

Sentenced to prison for life in 1921 for murder during a bank robbery at Culver, Ind., Burns was one of ten convicts who escaped after the late John Dillinger, then on parole, tossed guns over the wall to them.

That was the origin of the Dillinger gang. But Burns parted company with the rest when they were safely outside and found other companions. Indiana officials were already on hand and Inspector Johnson said Burns would probably be surrendered to them, adding that Indiana would have first claim on him even if Burns were tried for the Brooklyn raid.

The Brooklyn holdup was staged in barely three minutes when the money car stopped at an ice plant. The bandits raced to the waterfront, boarded a launch and then roared out to sea.

WRIGHT RETAINS ALL ASSISTANTS

Milton Murphy Is Named To Post In Office Of Attorney General.

William H. Wright, attorney general-elect, Monday announced retention of his fellow assistant attorneys general as assistants to him during his approaching administration, and the appointment of Milton C. Murphy, North Platte, to fill the vacancy created by his election.

Although Wright's announcement said all of the present staff of the attorney general's office is to be retained, no mention was made of C. G. Perry, assistant attorney general stationed at Bridgeport as counsel for irrigation affairs. It is understood that Perry is a candidate for appointment as district Judge for the seventeenth judicial district for the unexpired term of Judge Edward F. Carter, who was elected to the Supreme court bench from the sixth district. Perry probably will be renamed an assistant to Wright if the former is unsuccessful in capturing the judgeship.

The remainder of Attorney General Paul Good's staff retained by the attorney general-elect is: George W. Ayres; Paul P. Chaney; William C. Ramsey, stationed at Omaha; Daniel C. Stubbs and Edwin Vail.

Mrs Dorothy Moore, present chief clerk, was reappointed, as were Lyda Hafer and Lucile Lash, stenographers.

Murphy, the addition to the staff, has practiced law at North Platte six years since his graduation from the University of Colorado. He is associated with the law firm there of Halligan, Beatty

Lincoln Christmas Shopping 20 Per Cent Better Than In 1933; Saturday's Sales High

Lincoln business houses reported Monday that an incomplete checkup showed last Saturday to have been one of the best days in recent years, with all indications pointing to the best Christmas business since 1931.

Although the day may have marked the peak of the shopping this year, there are a number of business men who feel that the coming Saturday may approach it, because of the fact that there will still be an extra day before Christmas.

Business leaders feel that this Christmas season will be in the neighborhood of 20 per cent better than a year ago. The 1933 season was better than that of 1932 and the present period probably will reach or surpass the 1931 mark.

Greater Volume.

One store's customer count Saturday in three key departments indicated that from 20 to 33 per cent more people were in the store than on the same Saturday last year. Dollar returns, however, are not on a par with customer counts as purchases seem to be smaller but in greater volume than in boom years.

Almost every store has taken on a great number of extra employes to help through the season. One store took on 100 extra workers, almost 20 per cent of its regular force.

Another establishment said that every day of the month thus far had shown an increase as has every month since August. This store reported a 40 per cent increase for November over a year ago and nearly a 30 per cent increase thus far this month.

Although the Christmas buying started a week earlier than usual this year, a few merchants felt that the coming week-end would climax the biggest Christmas buying rush in three years.

FRED ZAJICEK FACES CHARGE IN SHOOTING

Denton Man Held After Bombarding Home of Former Fiancee.

Charges of "shooting with intent to inflict great bodily injury" are to be filed against Fred Zajicek of Denton, who fired a .12 gauge shotgun into the Jerry Tichey home near Denton early Sunday morning. Zajicek, allegedly enraged because his former fiancee, Miss Mary Tichey, slammed the door in his face and because Mr. Tichey refused to let him in, shot seven times into the house, slightly wounding Mr. and Mrs. Tichey.

County Attorney Towle said he thought he might also file charges of being an "accessory after the fact" against Robert Logan, farmer living 1 mile east of the Ticheys, in whose barn Zajicek was found hiding.

After shooting at the house, Zajicek retired to a barnloft and kept the Ticheys prisoners for

Second Corn and Hog Checks Start Coming

First Consignment Comes To Valley County; Total to Approximate Ten Millions.

Valley county was the first Nebraska county to receive second corn-hog benefit payments. C. C. Dale, agricultural agent, notified state AAA headquarters that $47,000 in checks arrived in Ord this morning. Distribution will take place immediately.

Arrival of part of Valley county's payments was interpreted here to mean that other counties will soon be getting their second payments. The payment based on 15 cents on corn and $1 on hogs will bring in approximately $10,000,000 into the pockets of cooperating Nebraska farmers.

Practically all of the first corn-hog checks have been distributed in the state. Totals here, as reported from outstate, are approximately $13,000,000. A final payment of $2 on hogs, minus local administrative expenses, is due in February.

Young Driver Says Could Not Stop In Icy Street.

POLK, Neb., Dec 17—(AP)—Andrew Eckdahl, 77, died here Monday from injuries suffered here Sunday night when struck by an automobile driven by Edward Larson, 19, of Polk.

Eckdahl was crossing a street and Larson said he was unable to stop his car because of the icy condition of the street.

OPINIONS VARY ON HUGE PLAN FOR RESOURCES

Norris Praises Proposal to Distribute 'Human Welfare' of U. S.

OTHERS OBJECT TO A PERMANENT PWA

Long-Range Project For Land Water and Mineral Wealth.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—A gigantic plan for America's natural resources, proposed to President Roosevelt as a means of distributing "human welfare" through the land, stirred a mixture of praise and doubt on Capitol hill today.

While some described the report of the president's national resources board as "very progressive" and "excellent," others expressed doubt about the wisdom of a permanent public works administration, which the board suggested.

Many, including regular republican leaders, withheld comment pending more study of the 100,000-word report on a long-range plan for the nation's land, water and mineral wealth.

Salient Points of Plan.

It included these salient points:

1. A six-year public works budget with a ten billion dollar reserve fund and elimination of "extravagance caused by the failure to co-ordinate public works—federal, state and local."

2. A program to retire 75,000,000 acres of submarginal or haroscrabble lands at the rate of 5,000,000 acres annually.

3. An expansion of subsistence homesteading with a further decentralization of industry.

4. Federal assistance to and control of the mineral industries to "minimize waste of natural resources, maintain reasonable wage standards and protect investments."

5. Surveys looking to the development of power, irrigation and flood control in 17 watersheds.

6. An end to heavy losses of soil caused by "uncontrolled erosion."

7. Better programs for "socially use-

FRAHM RETAKEN AFTER BREAKING JAIL AT OSHKOSH

Man Convicted of Manslaughter Is Recaptured In Short Time.

OSHKOSH, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—Fred Frahm of Sidney, recently sentenced to 10 years in prison for manslaughter in connection with the disappearance of his brother John six years ago, escaped from the county jail here Sunday night but was recaptured three blocks from the jail a short time later.

County Attorney E. J. Nenstiel said Frahm used a bench to pry apart bars of his cell and then locked Bud Allen of Broadwater, a trusty, in a cell.

Frahm is believed to have gone to a cottage camp, Nenstiel said, and then returned to the automobile of Ward Cooper, Oshkosh marshal, which was parked near a filling station.

Cooper said he saw Frahm get in the car and ran after him. He found Frahm lying in the car, Cooper said, and held him at the point of a gun until Sheriff George Ridenour arrived.

Nenstiel said Frahm refused to reveal exactly when he escaped or where he had been. Officers went to Bridgeport Monday to have commitment papers signed by District Judge Carter, and said they planned to take Frahm to the penitentiary at once.

Safety Board of 11 Members Proposed

A resolution disbanding the present safety advisory council of forty-odd members and creating a new board of eleven members was submitted by Mayor Fleming to the council Monday afternoon. The action is taken with approval of a large number of the old board, who considered the group unwieldy because of its size. The new board would consist of J. P. Pemberton, chairman of the old council, Val Blockwitz, M. T. Caster, Miss Helen Emig, M. C. Lefler, Fred Fassett, Britt Pryor, Frank L. Williams, Douglas Timmerman, Paul Shively, and V. G. Hill.

KANSAS POLICE HUNT OUTLAWS

Hamilton and Karpis Sought In Hills Of East Central Area.

TOPEKA, Kas., Dec. 17—(AP) State highway patrolmen searched the flint hills of east central Kansas today for two men they believe are John Hamilton, lieutenant of the late John Dillinger, and Alvin (Doc) Karpis, wanted for the kidnaping of Edward G. Bremer, Minneapolis banker.

Yesterday, patrolmen located a barn used as a hide-out near Strong City and after the abduction of Art Calkins, chief of police at Herington, who was released in northern Oklahoma after a day of captivity.

Previously H. W. Burton, negro school teacher, was abducted in Topeka and Kenneth Phillips, filling station operator at Lebo, was kidnaped. Both were released.

Burton's car was found yesterday mired in a river bank near Strong City. Police said three persons who saw a man try to drive the car into the river identified a picture of Hamilton as resembling the man.

Phillips told officers the larger of the two men who abducted him addressed the other as "Alvin."

Roosevelt Talks With Power Chief

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—President Roosevelt resumed discussions for cheaper electric power in a conference today with Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Edison Electric institute, which recently announced it was employing Newton D. Baker to test the constitutionality of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Mr. Roosevelt last week announced co-operation by several utility heads for the government's program to provide cheaper power.

IRWIN APPOINTED.

Wilbur R. Irwin of Omaha has been appointed by Governor Bryan as a member of the state board of accountancy, for a two-year term to date from December 1.

Ben Laska And Mathers To Face Complicity Charge

Department of Justice Accuses Denver and Oklahoma City Attorneys With Participating in Part of $200,000 Ransom Loot That Went to Albert Bates.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 17—(AP)—Arrest of James C. Mathers, Oklahoma City, and Ben Laska, Denver, attorneys for the defense in the $200,000 Charles F. Urschel kidnaping, was announced here today by the department of justice.

The attorneys were charged with complicity in the kidnaping for which Harvey Bailey, George (Machine Gun) Kelly and a dozen others were convicted and sentenced.

Both are in jail, Mathers here and Laska at Denver, announced Dwight Brantley, chief of the bureau of investigation here.

They are charged specifically with participation in the part of the $200,000 ransom loot that went to Albert Bates, one of the actual kidnapers who is serving a life term at Alcatraz island prison.

Both Took Part In Trial.

Both attorneys participated in the Urschel trial, Mathers as co-counsel with his father for Harvey Bailey and Laska as attorney for Bates.

At the same time Brantley disclosed that the federal grand jury indicted Clara Feldman, wife of Bates; Edward Feldman, her son, and Alvin Scott, her brother-in-law. These indictments grew out of the recovery of $46,000 of the ransom money in Oregon.

Brantley indicated that the indictments constitute the final chapter, "all of the evidence in possession of the division of investigation having been presented to the grand jury."

Laska In Custody.

DENVER, Dec. 17—(AP)—Arrest of Ben Laska, Denver attorney, on a charge of complicity in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping, was announced today by Harold Nathan, assistant chief of the bu-

EX-GOV. HARDING OF IOWA IS DEAD

Wartime Executive and G.O.P. Leader Succumbs In Des Moines.

DES MOINES, Dec. 17—(AP)—Former Gov. William L. Harding, 57, Iowa's wartime chief executive and an outstanding figure in republican politics in the state for many years, died at his home here today of diabetes.

The widow and one daughter, Barbara, survive.

Following a political career unmarred by defeat and begun when, as a 28-year-old country lawyer, Harding won his first election to the state house of representatives, he assumed the governorship of Iowa in the critical spring of 1917 to direct a vigorous wartime program and served two terms until 1921.

Practicing law for a year in Sioux City with James Kindig, later Iowa supreme court justice, Harding plunged early into politics.

He was elected to the legislature in 1906, and was lieutenant governor two terms under Gov. George W. Clarke, later to be elected governor. In later years he took an active interest in sponsorship of the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence waterways program.

William Voigt Dies

NELSON, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—William A. Voigt, 70, retired Nelson merchant, died here today. He came here in 1884 and retired in 1911. He was employed for a time in the eighties by the Winger and Miller department store in Lincoln. Voigt owned land in Nebraska, North Dakota and Oklahoma. He was a member of the state Y. M. C. A. committee for several years.

GOVERNOR LIFTS BAN ON ALFALFA

Eleven Idaho, Oregon Counties May Now Ship Feed Here.

An embargo against alfalfa from nine Idaho and two Oregon counties was lifted by Governor C. W. Bryan Monday in the hopes that Nebraskans will be enabled to obtain larger and cheaper supplies of feed.

Bryan said he was informed the affected counties have 40,000 tons of good alfalfa ready to market at prices from $2.50 to $4 per ton under prevailed quotations in Nebraska. He said some of the best grade of the fed was available for $11 per ton and the emergency drouth freight rates made it possible to ship the alfalfa from Boise, Ida., to Lincoln, Neb. for about $9.70 per ton, making a total price less than $20 per ton possible in points west of Lincoln.

The embargo was lifted after L. M. Gates, state entomologist, conducted an investigation to make sure the danger of alfalfa weevil has been remedied in the affected counties.

The governor invited feeders to look over data he has accumulated on the alfalfa for sale in the counties formerly under ban.

As Rogers Sees It

SANTA MONICA, Cal., Dec. 18 — One of the most honest divorce reasons I ever heard was given the other day by some fellow, "She suits me fine, but I just can't afford her."

I guess Florida is destroyed by the cold beyond any hope of ever coming back, by what I read in the papers out here. I see where somebody has started a movement to "unrecognize" Russia. We didn't sell 'em as much as we thought we would. I imagine their recognizing us hasn't turned out so hot for them either.

Yours, WILL.

Water Report Encouraging To Irrigators Of Nebraska

Urges Development Of Many Small And Unimportant Projects.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Nebraska's irrigation needs and prospects went unmentioned in the report of the national resources board to President Roosevelt.

The report, made public Sunday, contained many recommendations for national planning of public works, utilization of natural resources and particularly water resources which if carried out, ultimately may affect Nebraska. But the water planning committee, in listing specific projects on which studies should be initiated immediately made no mention of proposed irrigation development in Nebraska.

The report did recommend a thorough study of the Missouri river basin but directed specific attention to flood control projects in Kansas and Missouri. The report also directed attention to the importance of underground waters, a subject of frequent discussion in Nebraska.

Underground Waters.

"Underground waters are the chief reliance of our population in many areas," the report said. "These underground supplies are influenced to a degree that we cannot yet accurately determine, not only by the sinking of wells and the rate of pumping, but also by methods of lumbering, grazing, tillage, and drainage that influence evaporation, plant absorption, runoff, and seepage into deeper strata.

"In planning for water, the country must take a long view and think in terms of conservation as well as in terms of current use."

A permanent organization to conduct systematic planning into the best means of utilizing water for all concerned was urged to be followed by definite programs of development in a drainage basin or series of basins.

On Power Development.

Development of hydro-electric power was praised both "as a means of conserving the country's resources in coal, gas and oil" and in extending the benefits of electricity to rural areas.

The report's section on reclamation policies might hold encouragement to Nebraska projects, especially in its recommendation for facilitating the development of numerous small "and seemingly unimportant" irrigation projects.

Nebraska's North and Middle Loup power and irrigation projects as well as those in western Nebraska are small compared with most of those mentioned in the report.

ENLARGE PLANS BLOCK EROSION

Ivan D. Wood, administrator for the 17 forest service CCC camps in Nebraska, today announced a new plan of work starting in 1935, which provides for a broadened and well rounded program with major emphasis being put on terracing and cropping practices.

Under the new plan, individual farmers will build their own terraces but will be given engineering assistance from the conservation corps. The CCC boys will then build fills on terrace lines and continue their gulley control work. Shifting the emphasis to terracing, Wood said, will automatically take care of much gulley washing.

Two new additions have been made to the Nebraska forest service administration to enable the program to take full effect immediately. C. A. Frye, representative of the bureau of agricultural engineering in Washington, will act as field technician in the new program and co-operate with farmers in seeing that more acres per farm are protected from erosion. H. P. Gaylor, formerly with the federal forest service, is now with Wood in planning forest plantings for erosion control. CCC recruits have been gathering seedlings for spring planting for sometime and woodlots on many eroded lands are planned. Some land now being reclaimed will be put to trees.

Blaze In Machine

Firemen were called early Monday afternoon to the Capital Bedding Co., 727 R street, when a blaze started in a garnet machine, used to make felt from loose cotton, in the rear of the plant. Employes extinguished the fire, which was confined to the machine, before the city trucks arrived. Damage was negligible. Firemen said the blaze was apparently started by friction or a spark from the garnet machine, which is electrically operated. The building is owned by the W. J. Assenmacher Co. B. E. Krantz is manager of the bedding company.

Assumes Duties As Red Cross Secretary Here

Jean Tyler Takes Up Position Vacated by Mrs. Armstrong; Has Worked Here Before.

Miss Jean Tyler, 23, newly appointed executive secretary of the Lincoln and Lancaster county Red Cross chapter, took her post Monday morning. The former secretary, Mrs. Max Armstrong submitted her resignation effective Dec. 15.

Miss Tyler. —Townsend Photo

Miss Tyler will leave her desk during the first two weeks in January to take a two week study course in Red Cross work at the national headquarters in St. Louis. During that time Mrs. Armstrong will fill the place, temporarily.

Wesleyan Graduate.

Miss Tyler is the daughter of Dr. A. F. Tyler of Omaha and is a graduate of Nebraska Wesleyan with the class of 1932, where she majored in sociology and minored in psychology. Up to the time of her appointment she was taking graduate work at the University of Nebraska.

Miss Tyler worked one summer in the Omaha social settlement and took a summer's case study work at the University of Minnesota. She has done considerable volunteer case work in Lincoln and was at one time employed by the Interstate Employment agency here.

Government Motions To Dismiss Ten War Risk Cases Argued

Federal Judge T. C. Munger Monday morning heard arguments on government motion to dismiss ten war risk insurance suits against it. Frederick Wagener, government attorney, was moving to dismiss on jurisdictional grounds, either because claims or petitions were filed too late.

The ten suits, all brought on the $10,000 policy, are: Wallace Edmund Mullen, Lincoln; Joseph Heltenberg, Hebron; Minnie Uphoff George, Gilead; Robert Harrop, Roca; Jesse R. Waite, Lincoln; Palmer J. Miller, Lincoln; Grant O'Neal, Seward; John Adams, Spencer; George Frederick, Lincoln, and Archie Kleman, Beatrice.

BODY IS FOUND IN WATER TANK

Daughter Of Jacob Sass, Iris Grower, Ends Own Life.

OMAHA, Dec. 17—(AP)—Miss Greta Sass, daughter of Jacob Sass, nationally known iris grower was found drowned in a stock watering tank containing two feet of water Sunday morning at the Sass iris farm near Bennington. A note she had written indicated suicide, investigators said.

Miss Sass had been dead about three hours when found by a sister, Iris Sass, 12. The body, fully clothed, was lying face downward.

Relatives said the woman had been lonesome since the marriage three weeks ago of a younger sister. While the contents of the note left by Miss Sass were not revealed completely, relatives said it stated her act was not because of the sister's marriage.

STUDY CORN-HOG ALLOTMENT PLAN

Training School for Administrators On At Kansas City.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 17—(AP)—A two day training school for corn-hog allotment plan administrators from seven states opened here today under the direction of AAA officials from Washington. Discussions of the 1935 corn-hog plan, new administrative rulings, campaign organization, and cooperation with agricultural extension agents were scheduled, Reuben Brigham, chief of the regional contact section of the AAA, said.

Corn acreage will be 90 per cent of the 1932-33 base, but producers who wish to plant only 70 per cent of their base will be paid at the rate of 35 cents a bushel for the estimated yield of the land taken out of production, Brigham explained. No additional payment for reduction of more than 30 per cent will be made, he said. The benefit payment this year was 30 cents a bushel.

Hog production will be 90 per cent of the base instead of 75 per cent as under existing contrants, and benefit payments will be $15 a head on the number of hogs reduced instead of $5 a head on remaining hogs as at present.

SNOW AND RAIN IN SOUTHEAST

Skies Clear Monday After Lincoln Gets .11 Inch Moisture.

A wet snow followed by a light rain brought .11 of an inch of moisture to Lincoln Sunday afternoon and other southeastern Nebraska points also had snow and rain. The northwestern portion of the state also had a two inch snow during the day. Skies were clearing rapidly Monday morning, however.

The snow in Lincoln began falling at about four o'clock. Huge wet flakes fell to the ground and melted almost immediately. The rain fell at about 7 o'clock. Temperatures hovered around the freezing point and fell to a low of 28 degrees at 8 o'clock Monday morning.

At 12:30 the mercury was up to 38 degrees.

The snow apparently extended from Kenesaw east to the river and from Omaha south to around Crete. South of Crete light rains fell. The Sterling and Alliance divisions of the Burlington had 1½ to 2 inches of snow while the Casper division in Wyoming had three inches carried on a strong west wind.

Raymond had the heaviest snow in this section with 2 inches while Seward had 1½ inches.

OMAHA, Dec. 17—(AP) — A heavy fog hanging over Omaha like a gray blanket, this morning slowed traffic down to a creep and had pedestrians groping their way along the sidewalks. The fog shortened the visibility downtown to less than 200 feet, and mist on the pavements froze, sending automobiles skidding and slipping along the street. Minor collisions were numerous.

Pilot Frank Yeager of the United Air Lines, arriving over Omaha shortly after 10 a. m. from the west, was unable to land and turned back to Lincoln. The fog was slow in clearing and at noon was still fairly thick.

Three Sentenced

OMAHA, Dec. 17—(AP)—Three Omaha men who last week held up a grocery store here and wounded a bakery truck driver when a gun in the hands of one of the robbers was accidently discharged, were sentenced in District court Monday by Judge Yeager. Mike Luki, 39, and Elmer Small were sentenced to ten years each in the penitentiary, and Orville Crowell, 21, was sentenced to eight years in the reformatory.

Honors Accorded 4-H Club Winners Of Seward County

(Special to The Star.)

SEWARD, Neb., Dec. 17—One hundred and ten people attended the annual Seward county 4-H club banquet at the chamber of commerce Friday evening. K. C. Fouts, county agent introduced Laurence Buller, who acted as toastmaster. S. S. Rickard, secretary of the Omaha Livestock Exchange presented master feeder certificates to thirty-five boys and girls placing in the money at the state fair and at the Ak-Sar-Ben stock show. He also presented a silver trophy to Seward county for winning the most money at the Ak-Sar-Ben. Mr. Rickard presented a plaque to the county for showing the reserve champion group of five steers. County champions called upon included these: Theo Vogt, county corn club champion; Herbert Carr, county swine champion; Cora Mae Briggs, county canning champion; Luella Eberspacher, county home economics champion, also state champion; and Clyde Lyon, Milton Zillig and Lester Ricenbaw, who were members of the state champion dairy team, who attended the national dairy congress in Waterloo, Iowa. This team was presented with a cup won at this congress for placing first Brown Swiss. Misses Luella Eberspacher and Mildred Vogt, who won trips to the national club congress in Chicago, told of their experiences.

MAY ANTICIPATE SPECIAL LEVIES

Kier Holds Recent Rule Of Court Applies to Suburbs Here.

Beginning Tuesday it will be possible for residents of University Place, Bethany, Havelock and College View to pay all unpaid portions of special assessments against their property levied prior to annexation, without interest on the amount due after the date of payment. A resolution providing for acceptance of the payments was to be passed by members of the city council Monday.

The decision by the council is based upon an interpretation by City Attorney Kier of a recent decision of the state Supreme court on a case up from the District court of Fillmore county, in which an owner of property in Geneva had proffered full payment of a special assessment, and it was refused. The high court ruled that in cities of the second class full payments can be made at any time provided all assessments and interest up to the time of liquidating the entire amount, are paid. No interest shall be charged on that portion of the amount paid in advance, the decision said.

According to Attorney Kier's opinion, the suburban centers were cities of the second class at the time the assessments were set up, and therefore owners of the property affected should be allowed to wipe out the entire debt at any time.

The ruling, however, does not apply to special assessments set up since annexation, they being governed by the provisions of the charter, which specifies that the full amount without interest charges may be paid only during the fifty days after the first assessment becomes due.

FOREST TURVEY GOES TO TRIAL

BRIDGEPORT, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—Forest Turvey, 30, Morrill county rancher, went on trial here Monday on a second degree murder charge in connection with the death of Marion Wagner, 48, also a rancher, here last October 23.

Defense Attorney Bern Coulter questioned prospective jurors at length and indicated by his questions that Turvey would plead self defense. The jury panel was expected to be completed and witnesses examined during the afternoon.

Wagner was fatally wounded during an argument with Turvey over occupancy of a house near here. He died in an Alliance hospital the next day. The widow of the slain man was the sole witness to the shooting, County Attorney C. G. Perry said.

ADMITS KILLED COLORADO MAN

Man Arrested At Sidney Says He Shot His Employer.

GREELEY, Colo., Dec. 16—(AP)—A 24-year-old ex-convict confessed orally Sunday night, Sheriff W. W. Wyatt said, that he killed a Colorado rancher, wounded his wife and slugged their son "because I was brooding over lack of money to get married."

The prisoner is Leonard Blongia. He was arrested in Sidney, Neb., where he allegedly fled after killing Albert E. Oesterick, 55, as he lay in bed at his ranch 87 miles northeast of Greeley.

Sheriff Wyatt said Blongia told him he was a sheep herder for Oesterick, receiving only board and room.

"I got sore because Oesterick wouldn't give me some money," Wyatt quoted Blongia as saying.

The sheriff said the prisoner told him he "wanted to get married to a girl in Fort Lupton, Colo., but I didn't have any money. When Oesterick refused to give me some, I got sore."

Wyatt said Blongia told him he had been released from the Minnesota prison last May 8, after serving a term for auto theft.

Says Unicameral Is Progressive Move

WASHINGTON, Dec. 17—(AP)—Senator Norris of Nebraska in a speech here Sunday night said "the adoption of a one house legislature by Nebraska is a progressive step toward greater democracy.

"The double house originally came into existence as a defense for royalty and aristocracy," Norris said. "It has no place in a democratic form of government.

"This advanced step taken by the people of Nebraska is in accord with the opinion of honest students of government everywhere."

The senator reviewed the arguments in favor of a one house state legislature, small in number and elected on a non-partisan ballot, such as was provided for in an amendment he sponsored in Nebraska. Voters adopted the amendment to the Nebraska constitution at the November election.

VETERAN AT CRETE IS 95 YEARS OLD

(Special to The Star)

CRETE, Neb., Dec. 17—Today J. H. "Jock" Kimball, the only survivor of the Holland post No. 75, G. A. R., is celebrating his 95th birthday. Mr. Kimball, who is believed to be the oldest resident of Crete, served during the Civil war with a Nebraska regiment. He has lived in Crete 59 years, having come here from Herman, where he built the first house and where he was railroad agent for the O. & N. railroad, express agent, storekeeper and postmaster, all in one. Mr. Kimball built the old Kimball house when he came here, that hotel being now known as the Commercial hotel. He makes his regular trips to the business district each day and since his wife's death over a year ago, he has done his own shopping and housekeeping.

SKULL FRACTURE MAY BE FATAL

Gothenburg Man Is Badly Injured During An Altercation.

GOTHENBURG, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—Arthur Houchin, 52, has an even chance to recover, physicians say from a fractured skull suffered during an altercation here Saturday with E. William Sall, Dawson county relief officer for the American Legion.

Houchin regained consciousness in a Gothenburg hospital shortly before Sunday and Dr. W. J. Birkofer said Houchin's condition was improved.

Police Chief Bean said Sall and Albert Covey, salesman in a garage of which Sall is joint proprietor, told him Houchin came to the garage and became abusive in an argument over relief matters.

Houchin, a laborer, was put out of the garage once but came in again through a side door. Bean said Sall pushed Houchin out of the door after they had exchanged blows and Houchin apparently fell and struck his head on a curbing.

WATER IN PLATTE

KEARNEY, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—More than 500 second feet of water flowed past here in the Platte river today, the heaviest flow since May 5. Volume of the river began increasing Saturday. The river was dry at this point for eight months.

9-Year-Old Runaway Matches Wits With Police But Phone Bests Him

It was the rude jangle of the telephone bell which finally broke the "iron nerve" of 9-year-old Bobby Evans, 1732 North Twenty-eighth street, who for more than 30 minutes Sunday night had been almost successfully trying to convince Lincoln police that he was from Utica.

The runaway boy was first brought to the attention of the police department when he went to the Lincoln hotel in a taxicab, walked up to the desk and wanted to engage a room for the night. Seeing that the youngster had plenty of money, the night clerk thought that here was one for the police to figure out.

At headquarters, Bobby stuck to his Utica story, and parried questions.

Finally, it became time for the regular 7 o'clock fire telephone test, during which police are not required to say anything on the first call and only "O. K., police" on the second. As it rang the first time, Desk Sergeant Herbert McDowell said:

"You better tell me your right name, Bobby, and your address. That's your folks on the wire."

Bobby finally broke down then and confessed that he had been "fibbing a little" and willing policemen, all of whom had enjoyed the episode, packed him home to his parents.

Hit And Run Driver Causes Death Of Carpenter, Omaha

Operating Car Without Lights, Hits Man And Speeds Away.

OMAHA, Dec. 17—(AP)—Grant Brentlinger, 60, Omaha carpenter, was fatally injured Saturday night when struck by a car being operated without lights. The driver of the car did not stop the machine after striking Brentlinger, who died a few minutes after being taken to a hospital.

The car struck Brentlinger just a few seconds after Violet Netzel, 14, of Omaha, had saved her mother, Mrs. Leo Netzel, and her grandmother, Mrs. Maude Barton, from injury. Violet saw the car when it was almost upon the trio and shoved her grandmother and mother out of the way before leaping to safety herself.

North Platte Tragedy.

NORTH PLATTE, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—William Watkins, 70, died in a hospital here at 6:55 p. m. Sunday from injuries suffered yesterday when he was struck by a hit-run driver.

Watkins, a retired Union Pacific engineer, suffered a compound fracture of one leg and a fractured hip. Unable to sleep, he walked down town early Saturday and was injured when struck by a car while on the way home.

He had been in poor health since a stroke recently.

C. J. RAILSBACK IS DEAD AT ASHLAND

ASHLAND, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—Funeral services will be held here Tuesday for G. J. Railsback, 76, grain dealer here 40 years, who died Sunday. Railsback, who retired eight years ago, was a director of the Citizens National bank of Ashland. He lived here 52 years. A brother, a sister and a nephew survive. Interment will be at Minier, Ill.

AWARD CONTRACT TO LINCOLN FIRM

OMAHA, Dec. 17—(AP)—John Latenser, jr., state PWA engineer, announced that the contract for canal excavation from station 160 to the outlet in the Platte river, on the Loup river power project, has been awarded to the Martin-Day company, of Lincoln. The firm's low bid was $260,920.

Complaint Against Good Of Beatrice On Cutting Charge

COLUMBUS, Neb., Dec. 17—(AP)—A complaint charging Curtis Good, sr. of Beatrice, a horse trader, with "stabbing with intent to kill" and with "assault with intent to wound," has been filed in County court here by County Attorney Luckey.

The complaint is a sequel to an altercation between Good and Roy Harvey of Hastings, another horse trader, in Columbus last October 18, in which Good is said to have inflicted five knife wounds on Harvey. Good was treated in a hospital and after recovering from his wounds resumed his travels over the state with his horse trading outfit.

How to Make Better Cough Remedy Than You Can Buy

A Big Saving, and It's So Easy! No Cooking!

Cough medicines usually contain a large quantity of plain syrup—a good ingredient, but one which you can easily make at home. Take 2 cups of granulated sugar and 1 cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking! No trouble at all.

Then get from your druggist 2½ ounces of Pinex, pour it into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This gives you a full pint of truly wonderful cough remedy, far better than anything you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It lasts a long time, never spoils, and children love its taste.

This is positively the most effective, quick-acting cough remedy that money could buy. Instantly, you feel it penetrating the air passages. It loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, and makes breathing easy. You've never seen its equal for prompt, lasting results.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of Norway Pine, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to please you, or money refunded.

I did not kill Osborne

By VICTOR BRIDGES

SYNOPSIS: Nicholas Trench goes home, after being acquitted of the charge that he murdered his former school-fellow, John Osborne, only to find a mysterious letter from the chemical engineer, Sir William Avon, asking an appointment. Then two strangers arrive, threaten his life, and demand a paper he is supposed to have stolen from Osborne. The men are frightened by the voice of Molly O'Brien, pretending to call the police. Molly tells Nicholas she had come for the same paper, and that the paper is a formula for a new metal Osborne stole from her father who had died.

Chapter 11.
LONG SEARCH.

"When things were settled up," my visitor went on, "I found that I should have quite a lot of money—enough to travel where I liked and pay for any help or information I wanted to get.

"I felt almost sure that Osborne would go to England. I knew, of course, that it would be a terribly difficult business to find him, but I had got just one tiny little clue which gave me a certain amount of hope. Twice, when he had been at our house, I had heard him mention a place called Aubrey's. He said both times that it was the best and cheeriest restaurant in London, and I guessed that if he ever found himself back home, he would be certain to look in there if only for the sake of old times.

"Well, I came over as soon as I could get away, and I took a bedroom at a small private hotel which was almost next door to this place. Every day I used to lunch and dine there on the chance of seeing him and at last—at last one evening I did.

"He came in with someone else—a tall, good-looking man with white hair. They sat at a table in the other end of the room, and although I kept my back to them so that he shouldn't recognize me, I was table to watch them in a looking-glass. They seemed to be talking very seriously as if they were discussing business.

"When they got up to leave I followed them out. The tall man had a car waiting for him and went off in it, then I saw Osborne call a taxi and give some address which I couldn't hear. I got into another and told the man to stick as close to the one in front as he could, and when it pulled up to drive on slowly past it.

"I didn't know London at all well, and I had no idea where we were until we came to Osborne's house. My man put me down at the next corner. Then I walked back and made a note of the number and the road."

I looked at her admiringly. "Women are wonderful," I remarked. "I've always thought they'd make much better detectives than men."

"That part was easy enough. the difficult thing to decide was what I should do next. I had no actual proof that Osborne had taken the paper, and although the police at home had tried to help me, I didn't believe for a moment that they would go so far as to ask for his extradition.

"Besides, it was the formula I wanted, and I knew that directly he thought he was in any real danger his first idea would be to hide it or destroy it. I spent all the next day thinking things over.

"At last I decided that there was only one plan which would be any good at all. I should have to get somebody to help me. I should have to find some man whom I could trust and who at the same time would have enough pluck to take the law into his own hands.

"If, between us, we couldn't force Osborne to give it up . . ." She broke off with a queer mirthless little laugh. "When I opened my newspaper in the morning I found that he had been murdered."

"And as soon as they arrested me you quite naturally jumped to the conclusion that I'd got your formula?"

She nodded. "What else could I believe? I thought that he'd probably taken you into his confidence, and that you'd killed him in order to steal it. It was only when I went to the trial that I began to have my doubts. In the first place you didn't look a bit like a murderer."

"Thanks," I said gratefully. "I was under that impression myself, but it's nice to have it confirmed."

"Then there was the way you gave your evidence. I don't know whether I am really a good judge of people, but it seemed to me all along as though you were speaking the truth. I couldn't make up my mind at first whether I oughtn't to come forward and tell them my story. I knew if I did it would be bad for you,because then they'd be able to suggest that you had a much stronger reason for killing him."

"I should have been hanged for a certainty," I said. "The weakness of the motive was what saved me. After all, a fairly successful sculptor doesn't go about battering out people's brains for a few hundred pounds."

"That's what I felt and so I kept quiet. You see whether you'd done it or not. I wanted you to be let off. If you had, it only served Osborne right, and besides, in that case, there was still a chance that I might be able to get back the formula. If you hadn't—" she paused— "well, I had an idea that you were exactly the sort of man who might be ready to help me."

I threw away the cigaret I had been smoking, and sat down on the sofa. "Tell me," I said, "how did you get in here, and what did you intend to do if those chaps hadn't turned up?"

"I meant to find out the truth one way or the other. I was determined to see you as soon as the trial was over, and I thought that the best chance would be to wait for you at your own studio. I knew where it was because there had been such a lot about you in the newspapers, so one morning a few days ago, I came along to have a look at it.

"Then I discovered that the place next door was to let. I went to the agents straight away, and as I had a good refeence from my bank in New Orleans, they didn't make the least difficulty about giving me a lease. I took it for a year and paid them six months in advance."

"You certainly do things pretty thoroughly while you're about them," I said. "But I still don't understand how you came to be in my bedroom."

"It was just a bit of good luck. As it happens the same key fits the front door of both studios. I found that out directly I got here."

"Go on," I said encouragingly. "I'm learning all sorts of interesting things tonight."

"I isn't the only time I've been inside. I've searched the whole place thoroughly twice.. I didn't find anything, of course, but I still thought it possible that you might have hidden the paper under a loose board or somewhere like that, and if you had I felt sure that the first thing you would do would be to go and look for it. That was the reason why I hid myself in there." She nodded towards the bedroom. "There's a crack in the upper panel just wide enough to see through, and . . ."

"But supposing you had been right," I interrupted. "Supposing you'd found yourself boxed up here alone with a distinctly irritated murderer?"

"I'd got this." She slipped her hand down inside her dress and pulled out a miniature revolver. "It doesn't look very dangerous," she added "but it would kill a man all right at close range."

"That's comforting news, anyhow," I observed. "If our visitors happen to call again we shall be able to give it a good test."

She restored the little ivory-handled weapon to its former hiding place.

"When you came in as you did," she continued, "and started to read your letters, I felt more certain than ever that you hadn't really done it. I was just going to open the door when those two men rang the bell."

"Rather an unpleasant surprise!"

"It was," she said quietly. "You see, I recognized one of them at once."

"You recognized one of them!" I repeated stupidly. "Which?"

"The clean-shaven one in the soft hat. His name's Dimitri and he comes from New Orleans."

There was a long pause.

"And who and what," I inquired, "is Mr. Dimitri when he happens to be at home?"

She shook her head. "I don't know exactly. I can only tell you that he has a very bad name out there. He is mixed up with all the worst people in the place—men who run gambling saloons and that kind of thing.

Tomorrow. Nicholas and Molly form a "syndicate."

DISABLED CRAFT HEADS FOR PORT

SEATTLE, Dec. 17—(AP)—The British steamer Cape Ortegal, that sent out S. O. S. calls last night 400 miles off the coast, reported it was limping back to Puget Sound today for repairs.

The ship apparently was safe," despite a bad list caused by a shifting deck load of lumber.

"It should be able to return safely," said David R. Girdwood, president of the Girdwood Shipping company, under whose charter the vessel was sailing.

Dr. Lynn Sharrar said Condon's recovery is expected. His injuries included a brain concussion and a laceration above the left eye.

Review Denied—The Nebraska Supreme court refused to review its recent decision affirming the conviction of Charles Young and his 3-year prison sentence for the shooting and wounding of LeRoy Jones, Omaha detective sergeant, July 23, 1933. Jones was shot when he sought to investigate an automobile containing Young, a woman and another man.

Schultz Slightly Hurt—Earl R. Schultz, 25, 1336 O street, suffered a minor injury to his left elbow when his roadster collided with another machine at Ninth and O streets shortly before 7 o'clock Monday morning. The driver of the second car stopped after the crash but left the scene of the accident a few minutes later without giving his name. Two companions of Schultz escaped injury.

Minor Thefts — Thieves who forced their way into a tool house at the Searle-Chapin Lumber company, 737 N street, took two hammers, a saw, and a claw bar valued at $7, police learned Monday. Frederick Warner, 2614 A street, reported the theft of his overcoat from the city library reading room, Sunday evening. A spare tire and rim was taken from a car belonging to Charles Benzell, 800 A street, the owner reported to police Sunday.

Pleads Not Guilty—Joe Wisser, 69, booked late Sunday afternoon for driving while intoxicated after his truck collided with a parked car and a street car, pleaded not guilty when arraigned in Municipal court Monday morning. Trial was set for December 21 with bond at $500. Police said Wisser's car struck a parked machine belonging to Miss Helen Eastman, 1327 H street, at Twenty-second and South streets. Wisser, officers said, continued without stopping and a few blocks farther, collided with a street car. James Oram, 6003 Ballard avenue, passenger in the street car obtained Wisser's license and police later found Wisser sitting in the College View fire barn.

Conservation Collections. — Reports were given at a joint meeting of committees from the Lincoln chapter of the Isaak Walton league and junior division of the chamber of commerce at the chamber of commerce Monday noon, regarding the collection of funds for the state-wide program of wild life conservation. Dr. Clarence Emerson, president of the league, reported $60, $40 of which was subscribed from 225 persons in the Sharp building—almost 100 per cent participation. Joe Winterhalter, representing the junior chamber committee, turned in $36.25, representing the funds collected by five workers. Frank B. O'Connell spoke to the committeemen briefly, pointing out that the campaign is the most popular that he has ever witnessed.

a member of the legislature from Nemaha county, afterward located at Wayne, has written a letter to the normal board joining in one charge made by Lewis to the effect that 20 years ago President Conn wrote a letter to an Omaha newspaper, published under a fictitious signature, in which the statement was made that "the state normal board is a superfluous body."

Numerous Charges.

Among the specifications set forth by Lewis in the course of two dozen pages of typewritten allegations against Conn are the following:

That the Wayne teachers' college has no real budget system.

Various personal disagreements between Lewis and Conn over details of school administration.

More co-operation needed between president and faculty; department heads and faculty members have too little to say on questions of policy and management; very few faculty meetings and conferences held to discuss these things.

Irregularities in granting diplomas and certificates.

Unfriendliness to student activities, aside from athletics, and toward the alumni association; no student councils at the Wayne school, and students given no voice in its administration.

Lack of general morale in the institution.

Use of Equipment.

Mixing private business with the operation of the school, particular reference being made to the use of rooms and equipment by Conn's daughter, Miss Ardeth for music lessons and programs, to the alleged detriment of regular members of the faculty.

Fault found with subject matter and general character of school publications; faculty members incorrectly listed in catalogue.

Opposition by Conn two years ago to Lewis as a candidate for re-election to the Wayne city council, the latter being elected nevertheless.

Claims Compact Breached.

Following this episode, Lewis says, Member F. S. Knapp of the normal board summoned both himself and Conn to Omaha and persuaded them to make up their differences, shake hands, and promise to work together. Lewis claims he lived up to this compact, but Conn did not.

He also accuses the president of calling certain students from Lewis's classes into Conn's office and quizzing them about the professor's alleged communistic tendencies and unfairness to religious groups.

The Lewis agenda also refers to transactions in which lumber and grain said to be the property of the Wayne school weer taken to Conn's farm and used there; also, that some of the school employes were sent to work on the farm at different times.

Conn Denies Charges.

President Conn makes a point-by-point denial of all the charges and has presented affidavits from other persons to disprove them. Among other things he denies that too much stress is placed on atheletics and not enough on miscellaneous student activities, and that faculty members have been ignored in administering the school. The work done by school employes on his farm, Conn says, was not paid for with school funds.

The president in turn charges Lewis with meddling in the education department of the school, which is outside his own sphere.

Conn cites the fact that the Wayne teachers' college is on the approved list of the north central association, as evidence of its scholastic standing. He also quotes a favorable report made by the state institutions committee of the 1933 legislature, whose members inspected the school.

All Members Attend.

All of the seven members of the state normal board were in attendance at Monday's meeting.

February 11, at Lincoln, was fixed by the board as the date of the next meeting. At that time members will be ready to appear before committees of the legislature and explain the needs of the state normal schools for the next biennium.

In the meantime, President E. L. Ferneau and Secretary F. W. Andersen, together wtih the presidents of the four schools, were authorized to confer with Governor Bryan and Governor-elect Cochran in presenting the board's budget requests.

Attorney Berry started to address the board shortly before noon in regard to the Lewis complaint against Conn, but was interrupted by Member F. J. Munday, who asked that the matter be laid over until afternoon so that Lewis might be notified and be present if he wished to.

All the normal presidents made their regular reports at the forenoon session, which were approved. A few faculty changes were listed, but no major additions or resignations were included.

About People

E. N. Van Horne, president of the Continental National bank returned Sunday from New York City, where he spent last week at a meeting of the executive council of the American Bankers association.

Treasurer L. H. Diers of Seward county, recently re-elected, was a visitor at the capitol Monday. Mr. Diers will soon have democratic company in the courthouse at Seward, where hitherto he was the only official of that party in the building. All of the first floor offices will be filled with democrats after January 3. The second floor is still held by republicans.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry Welch and son Larry James, of 765 South Fortieth street, are leaving Thursday for Kansas City, Kas. to spend the holidays with Mr. Welch's mother and sisters.

ARRESTS MADE IN URSCHEL CASE

reau of investigation of the department of justice.

Laska has been indicted, said Nathan, with James C. Mathers, Oklahoma City attorney, for "illegal participation in the division of the Urschel ransom money apportioned to Albert Bates."

Bates, now is confined with Harvey Bailey, notorious southwestern desperado, and George (Machine Gun) Kelly in Alcatraz prison, San Francisco, for the $200,000 abduction in 1933 of Urschel, Oklahoma millionaire.

Appeared For Bates.

"The division," said Nathan, "has suspected for a considerable period that his (Laska's) relations to various members of the underworld with whom he has been associated have been more intensive and extended than those based upon the legitimate duties and responsibilities of an attorney to his clients."

Laska, who appeared as counsel for Bates after the latter's arrest in Denver, also represented a group of suspects in the $60,000 kidnaping of Charles Boettcher II, in Denver.

Magee's Win First In Ad-of-Month Contest

Magee's had the best advertisement in the merchandise division of the Ad club's monthly contest when winners were announced at a luncheon meeting Monday noon at the chamber of commerce. The Joyce Ayres agency won first in the direct mail class and Iowa-Nebraska Light and Power Co., had the best institutional ad.

Second places in the three divisions went to Miller and Paine, University Publishing Co. and Richard Longley. Developments in mechanical production were described as John Cronley and Otto Brinkman discussed electrotyping and linoleum color plate printing. About 35 attended.

Adam Rumpeltes, Tailor Here Many Years, Dead

Lincoln Resident Since 1890; Funeral Services Tuesday at Trinity Lutheran Church.

Adam Rumpeltes

Adam Rumpeltes, 77, who for many years operated a tailor shop at Eleventh and N streets, died at his home, 625 South Twenty-fifth street, at 8:30 o'clock Sunday evening.

Funeral services will be held at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon at Trinity Lutheran church, Thirteenth and H streets. Six grandsons will act as pallbearers: Victor and Ed Wendelin; Walter Rumpeltes, Adam Rumpeltes, 3rd; Ernest Rumpeltes and I. L. Gardner. Burial will be in Wyuka cemetery.

Mr. Rumpeltes was born in Hungary; Nov. 23, 1857 and was married to Susanne Pittnauer in 1877.

Coming to America in 1886, Mr. and Mrs. Rumpeltes homesteaded near Oberlin, Kas. They moved to Lincoln four years later and had resided here since.

He is survived by his wife, Susanne; three daughters, Rose at home, Mrs. Martha Borin of Milford and Mrs. Elizabeth Wendelin of Lincoln; two sons, Adam, jr., of Coon Rapids, Ia., and Herman of Lincoln; a brother, Andrew of Hastings; a sister, Mrs. Anna Wurm of Traer, Kas.; thirteen grandchildren and twelve great grandchildren.

FRED ZAJICEK FACES CHARGE

nearly 12 hours, warning them that he "would kill them if they came out," Deputy Sheriff Homer Greed said. Zajicek is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Tichey.

Escape In Truck.

The Ticheys finally escaped in a milk truck which came to the farm about noon, and went to Denton where they called the county sheriff's office.

Zajicek was arrested by Deputy County Sheriffs Greer and James Davis early Sunday afternoon, who found him hiding in a pile of cane in a barn at the Robert Logan farm, about 1 mile east of the Tichey farm. Logan was also arrested by officers, who said that when they were first there he denied having seen Zajicek and recommended their coming to Lincoln to search for him.

Say Admitted Drinking.

After his arrest Zajicek admitted hat he had shot at the Tichey home and was quoted as saying that "he was so drunk he didn't know what he was doing." Officers said that the man was not intoxicated when they arrested him. It was midnighen when he went to the Tichey home the first time.

Officers said Zajicek also claimed that both Mr. Tichey and his daughter owed him money which they refused to repay.

Zajicek said that he had been engaged to Mary Tichey until about five weeks ago, when she broke the engagement, Greer quoted the man as saying.

Zajicek fired into every window in the downstairs portion of the house, shattering five of them, shot a hole in the door and discharged a blast into the side of the house which ripped through and into the room.

Mr. and Mrs. Tichey suffered only superficial wounds about the head from the flying buckshot and flying glass, officers said.

ful" public works and a lump sum from which the president could allot money under at least a six-year plan.

8. A permanent five-member planning agency to serve as an advisory "general staff" for the president to co-ordinate "long-time public works planning, land use, water resources, mineral policy and mapping."

Other Recommendations.

The report made many other recommendations, covering increased land purchases; additions to forests, parks and wild life refuges; land uses, irrigation, grazing land extensions, Indian policies and state and regional planning.

Secretary Perkins expresses the belief the vast plan could put every able-bodied man to work. Only the future will tell just what recommendations the president will make to congress after studying it in detail.

Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, said it was a "very progressive plan and I think the government ought to carry it out."

"It would take years to do it," he said, "but it would protect and give to the people the use of our natural resources which have been either destroyed or given away in the past."

WRIGHT RETAINS ALL ASSISTANTS

"I believe he will be a real addition to the staff of the attorney general," Wright's statement said.

"All of the present staff of the attorney general's office is being retained. Their ability and experience cannot be improved upon and I believe that the office can best be carried on by their combined efforts. I have been closely associated with all of them during the past two years and I feel from every point of view that I can best serve the state by retaining them as assistants in office."

COCHRAN NAMES FIVE APPOINTEES

be made by the governor-elect, such as state sheriff, tax commissioner, purchasing agent and fire marshal.

Saunders, who is 62 years old, is a comparatively new figure in state political circles. A democrat, Saunders' political activities have been confined almost entirely to his Pierce county community.

"Mr. Saunders has a long, successful banking career, having been identified with the banking business for the past 25 years," the statement announcing the appointment said. "At present he is cashier of the Plainview State bank, a position he has filled for the past seven years."

Nearly Lifelong Nebraskan.

Connecticut born, Saunders has been a resident of Nebraska since he was 6 months old. His family consists of a wife; a daughter teaching in the Central City schools and a son, an aviator in the U. S. coastguard service at Cape Elizabeth, Me.

Tilley's appointment as state engineer climaxes nearly 16 years' service with the state highway department, and, at the age of 38, he succeeds his former chief.

Started in 1919.

After service overseas with the U. S. navy during the war following his graduation from Rensselaer Polytechnic institute in 1917, Tilley first became connected with the then department of public works early in 1919 as a project engineer under the direction of Cochran, then a district engineer. Tilley was promoted to assistant district engineer at Scottsbluff in 1921 and in 1922 he was made district engineer at North Platte succeeding Cochran. In 1923 he was transferred as district engineer at Norfolk, where he remained six years until 1929, when he was called into the Lincoln office as maintenance engineer.

Tilley enlisted in the navy and saw 18 months' service, nine months overseas.

Given Special Duties.

In addition to his old duties as chief of the bureau of roads and bridges, a position he has held since 1927, Lobdell is given special duties in connection with the Sutherland and Columbus PWA projects, Cochran said.

"Mr. Lobdell has had a very close connection with the two large PWA projects, the Columbus power project and the Sutherland power and irrigation project, as well as with the other functions of the state engineer's office," Cochran's announcement said. "His duties will combine all of the old duties of his office, together with special duties connected with these projects and other work with which he has been closely related."

Lobdell has been connected with the highway department over 15 years, since 1919, starting his service as a project engineer. From assistant district engineer at McCook in 1921, he was promoted to district engineer at York in 1923. In 1927 he was made chief of the bureau of roads and bridges.

A World war veteran, Lobdell enlisted in the army at the outbreak of the war following his graduation as an engineer from Cornell university in 1916, and served as a lieutenant of engineers two years, one year overseas.

Like Saunders, Moose, new insurance director, is a newcomer in political officialdom in Nebraska. His insurance career covers the past 25 years. General agent at Omaha for the Home Life Insurance Co. of New York the past 15 years, Moose for three years was agency instructor for the Prudential Insurance Co. of America, in that capacity traveling throughout the United States and Canada.

Because of his broad experience he was selected by the insurance fraternity to conduct a class in life insurance at the Omaha university college of commerce. Moose is 46 years old, married, has two sons and has lived in Omaha 20 years.

Felton First Hangover.

Felton, the only state department head to be reappointed so far, is a western Nebraskan. His residence is at Ogallala. He is an extensive land owner and farm operator both in Perkins and Keith counties, although during his 20 years' residence at Ogallala he was engaged in real estate and insurance business. He has lived in Nebraska since he was 10 years old, when he moved with his parents from Ohio in 1886 to Rock county. He homesteaded in Keya Paha county, later moved to the Rosebud country of South Dakota and to Ogallala in 1913.

Felton's administration of the agriculture department and the multitude of duties coming under it the past four years has received the almost unanimous commendation of all groups affected by it.

Luikart praised his successor as an "excellent man for the place." "I should like to have been reappointed, of course, but if I had been governor and making the selection myself, I don't know of any man better qualified than he is," Luikart said, declaring that Saunders will have the full cooperation of the banking department when he takes charge.

As head of the banking department, Luikart is receiver for scores of failed state banks, and it will require court orders to transfer these receiverships to the new superintendent.

Insurance Director Herdman likewise pledged co-operation with his successor. "I am not surprised because I was not reappointed," said Herdman. "I know very little about my successor, but I will be glad to help him become familiar with the details of the office."

MARRIAGE LICENSE

WILBER, Neb., Dec. 17—A marriae license was issued here Thursday to Rodney Carl Johnson, 24, and Eleanor Stanley, 20, both of Crete.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

BY THORNTON W. BURGESS.

A Wish Comes True

Good wishing does no harm to you,
And now and then a wish comes true.
—Nanny Meadow Mouse.

Most people are given to wishing at times. And why not; so long as such wishing is good wishing? It does no one any harm and it gives one pleasant thoughts. Of course, you don't really expect your wishes to come true, but now and then one does. Your wishing, no matter how great it is, may not and probably does not have anything to do with bringing it to pass, but you will always have the feeling that it may have had.

In a jug lying on its side under a ragged old coat in a fence-corner of Farmer Brown's cornfield was as snug a home as ever any Meadow Mouse had. It was the home of Danny and Nanny Meadow Mouse. Nanny was the one who had discovered that jug, and when she had led Danny to it he had been as sure as was she that it was the safest home they ever had had. Then Farmer Brown's Boy had come along and picked up the jug. When he discovered that there was a home in it he had carefully replaced it just as he had found it and again covered it with the old coat. But Danny had had such a fright that he had refused to live there any longer and had started off. Nanny had refused to leave and at last Danny had returned. As Farmer Brown's Boy did not return, Danny soon got over his fright and agreed that Nanny was right in staying.

As yet no one else had discovered where they were living, but they knew that it was merely a matter of time before Reddy Fox or Mrs. Reddy, Black Pussy or Jimmy Skunk or perhaps Shadow the Weasel would come poking around in that fence-corner and perhaps find that they were living there. They just hoped that it wouldn't be Shadow the Weasel. He could follow them into that jug whereas the others couldn't. But it would be so much better if no one found out that they were living there. Then they could go and come without danger or worry.

Not far from the old coat was a ridge in the ground. It had been made by Miner the Mole digging his tunnel just below the surface and pushing the roof up to make that ridge. It had been made some time before and there had been no signs of Miner since Danny and Nanny had come there to live.

"I wish," said Nanny one evening as they passed close to this ridge, "that Miner the Mole would come back here before cold weather freezes the ground."

"Why?" demanded Danny. "What do you want with that fellow? He is the least social of anybody I know. I never have seen another such fellow for wanting to be by himself. It seems as if all he wants is to keep out of sight and dig. As a neighbor he is useless."

"Wrong, Danny Meadow Mouse," declared Nanny. "I am surprised at you. I am so. How any one who has used the tunnels of Miner as many times as you have can say that he is useless is more than I can understand."

"I had forgotten those tunnels," confessed Danny. "They had slipped my mind entirely. I'll take back what I said about his being useless as a neighbor. Still I don't see any good reason for wishing his return before frost."

"You wouldn't replied Nanny.

"Well, if you have a good reason, what is it?" demanded Danny.

"Because if he should come back he might just happen to make a tunnel under that old coat and close to that thing in which we live," replied Nanny.

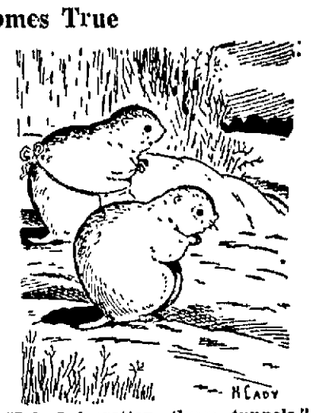
"What if he did?" asked Danny.

"Are you really stupid or just pretending to be?" demanded Nanny crossly.

"I'm not stupid. I'm not pretending to be and I still don't see what you want that fellow tunnelling around our home for," retorted Danny, quite as crossly.

Nanny was ready with a sharp retort when the earth just ahead of them began to move. They stopped and watched with breathless interest. The earth was being pushed up from below. Yes, sir, it was so. They both knew what it meant. Nanny's wish had come true — Miner the Mole had returned.

(Copyright, 1934, T. W. Burgess.)



"I had forgotten those tunnels," confessed Danny.

The next story: "Miner Is Obliging."

JAPAN PLANS WAR GAMES.

TOKYO, Dec. 17—(AP)—Japanese newspapers said today the navy's 1935 maneuvers would be held in a north Pacific triangle to match those planned by the United States in the California-Alaska-Hawaii triangle. The newspaper Chugai Shogyo also asserted the American war games are designed to test "the possibility of coming over to the Japanese coasts."

TAKE YOUR TROUBLES TO MINERVA

"Many people become conventional just as they would on a new and more becoming (in the contemporary public eye) style of dress," says "A Reader," in discussion of what he believes to be unfair criticism of a young man in a recent editorial. He says, in part:

"I don't wish to advocate a vulgar display of promiscuity. Slovenliness in moral conduct I believe inexcusable. But I do resent what I believe to be your unfair criticism of the young man referred to in your editorial. The young man puts his arm around the girl in the theater. Tsk-tsk. He kisses her sometimes in public. Twice he even grabbed her up in his arms (she might have said 'picked me up' if she hadn't been rather taken by the idea in retrospect) and carried her up the front walk to the house. You call it the epitome of bad taste to make a public display of any kind.

"The words "good taste" have for me a distinct stigma. Those words when held up as an ideal, imply a distinctly artificial code of conduct. Some people make use of decorum as Richardson's famous heroine (Pamla?) made use of her chastisy, simply as a means to an end.

"There has always been a revolt against convention. Convention tends to become a static thing. It lingers after there is no use for it in many cases. Young men who consciously revolt against it are often more sincere and thoughtful in their intentions than those who do not. After all, revolt against convention is as traditional and worthwhile as convention itself; and if it weren't for this fact we'd still be in the middle ages as far as dress and conduct were concerned.

"Two young people together. You know how one tires of petting a cat. Finally you put the cat down with a restless feeling of time wasted, sometimes not before you have let your irritation find a little relief in brushing the cat's fur the wrong way or otherwise teasing the animal.

"If you were a young fellow; drove up in front of your girl's house, taking her home; she, probably a pretty creature, sat a while with you, talking—wouldn't you experience the same restlessness creeping over you? Maybe women don't experience it. Men do, quite without physical contact. It's the sexual urge, to be sure. Not that the young fellow realizes it.

"But the restlessness is stirred up; he may get out and start fiddling with somethong under the hood of the car; he may turn handsprings; he may start teasing the girl. The young man is beginning to feel the inexorable pull of things more fundamental than good taste. Probably I am older than the fellow in this case, but if I had gone with a girl for two years and had gone no further than kissing her in public, I'd do something about it. Two such people aren't suited to become happily married.

"'The fact is,' you say, 'that she is the greater advanced of the two, by far.'

"To which I counter that if she is the one responsible for the reserve existing between them, she is probably auto-erotic and unfit for a permanent companion anyhow. The young man had my silent sympathy as I read your assault against him."—A READER.

An understanding analysis of the young man, to be sure, and a most enjoyable letter. I wish I had spect to publish the whole of it.

Nevertheless, I still estimate the unrestrained young man as "adolescent," and believe he will have to learn self-control and good taste before he can enjoy or be enjoyed by society at large. A certain degree of conformity must be developed, even by the individualist, or he destroys his talents and high spirits beating futilely against rocks of misunderstanding.

. Fights for Fortune

Mrs. Anne Cannon Reynolds Smith of Concord, N. H., charged that her Reno divorce from the late Smith Reynolds was illegal and void when she entered the court fight at Winston-Salem, N. C., for the $25,000,000 fortune of the tobacco heir.—(AP) Photo.

I like high spirits, originality, spontaneity, creativeness. I recognize the restless urge of youth. I abhor that which is stilted, stiff, formal, cold, heavy and artificial. But there is a happy medium of good taste and thoughtfulness of others. This is a balance which youth needs to find.

Answered Briefly.

Maude: I think you should invite the entire family, if you invite part of them, for a holiday "open house." The feud between the aunts and uncles is their affair, not yours. To refrain from inviting any of them would involve you in something in which you are not concerned, and moreover announce the family breach to the whole community.

Mrs. J. Y.: Of course you are making a mistake in supplying the boy with spending money, the use of the car, good clothes and all such comforts when he refuses to go any place to school and doesn't even try to get a job. You are giving him dangerous training in idleness and chiseling. You must demand that he either make profitable use of his time through study or that he earn his own spending money. Other young fellows manage to get jobs. He isn't even trying. You are making it too soft for him. Such wallowing in idleness and self-indulgence will surely ruin his character, if continued.

Miss Martinson's Head Injured In Taxi-Auto Crash

Miss Margaret Martinson, 1621 Q street, suffered a head injury, concussion of the brain and a bruised left shoulder when the taxicab in which she was riding collided with a car driven by W. M. Stewart, 76, at Sixteenth and N streets Sunday afternoon.

Miss Martinson was improved Monday morning, attendants at St. Elizabeth hospital said. She is being attended by Dr. George E. Lewis.

Stewart, who lives a half mile east of the penitentiary, was driving west on N street, and the taxi, driven by D. O. Bucher, 144 North Tenth street, was making a left-hand turn north on Sixteenth when the accident occurred, police said.

BANK DIVIDEND.

Patrons of the Farmers' State bank at Brule, in receivership, are being paid $4,930 by the state banking department as the first dividend, 10 per cent, on their accounts.

Sen. Stewart Turns Table, Sends Questionnaires To Constituents

Cloyd L. Stewart of Clay Center, re-elected state senator from Clay and Adams counties, is reversing the usual procedure on the voters of his district in the interests of good gover ment. Senator Stewart, in common with thousands of other legislators and prospective legislators, has, in his time, been besieged with countless questionnaires wanting to know his stand on this or that.

Now Senator Stewart has compiled a questionnaire of his own and is submitting it to his constituents through the medium of co-operating newspapers in his territory. He feels it to be, not an unusual experiment, but rather a poll to guide his course in the coming legislative session.

The questionnaire submitted contains 27 questions in three different sections—liquor legislation, county government and state problems.

15 On Liquor.

Fifteen of the questions, more than half, bear on the problem of liquor legislation. The senator wants to know if his voters favor county or local option, if they favor the Slocum law, where revenue from liquor taxes shall go, what to do about drunken drivers, and answers to other perplexing problems.

Under the heading of county government Senator Stewart asks his voters if they favor a county manager plan, if they favor consolidation of county officers, if they favor limited and shortened terms for county officers and if they want salaries cut.

The final seven questions are of state wide importance. Do the voters, he wants to know, favor a state highway patrol system? Do they favor the sales tax? Do they want an old age pension law? Should the state moratorium law be extended? What about the primary election laws? How about putting the one house into effect?

Other legislators are watching Senator Stewart's experiment with interest.

NO YAWNING GULF.

COMPARED with many eastern states, the analysis of income tax payments made by Nebraskans, as given out by Commissioner Guy T. Helvering of the bureau of internal revenue, is nothing to shout about.

It shows in 1932 there was only one return from this state where the net income was in excess of $100,000, and it was under $150,000. Four other Nebraskans in 1932 had a net income in excess of $50,000, and sixty-three between $25,000 and $50,000. There were 25,503 individual returns, showing a net income of $66,007,030. Of course, a more unfavorable year could not have been selected. Nebraska is predominantly agricultural. The farming population faced its greatest crisis in '32, with wheat and corn at the lowest price levels within the period since authentic statistical data has been prepared. Naturally, that condition would reflect itself in all lines of business, and in the individual earnings of the people of Nebraska. At the low peak of prices in the fall of '32, it took a thousand bushels of corn to bring $100, and 10,000 bushels to yield $1,000, the minimum for reportable incomes. Few farms of the normal size in this state average 10,000 bushels in any season.

And while Nebraska may feel sorry for herself on this showing, one observation is pertinent. There is not the yawning gulf between great wealth in this state and abject poverty. There is not the sordidness, the unhappiness, the misery of many of the great industrial cities and regions where princely incomes are enjoyed by a few and difficult living conditions by most of the population. Here there is less poverty, we say, and less great wealth. It tends to produce a happier civilization. Certainly it develops an entirely different philosophy. There is greater independence in thought and in action. Throughout the state's entire history, Nebraska has been free of that which produces political machines and gives the "boss" his political power. It has been responsible for a different type of objectives and a different ideal.

As between the two, the choice should be easy. There is a ruggedness and a stability to a commonwealth where wealth is distributed fairly evenly not possessed where it is concentrated in relatively few hands. We have felt that Nebraska has passed through sharp and painful experiences since 1929, and so it has. But the unemployment, the destitution, the problem of relief have not been nearly so acute as they have been in many of those states where income tax reports show many, many times more wealth than in the state of Nebraska. That is the striking paradox to be gathered from the statistical data, and it presents, in reality, a problem that always has bedeviled democracy.

The American tradition encourages initiative. It has been developed through individual success. It best can be expressed with the old belief that this is the land of opportunity. Every new country possessing institutions of representative government is a land of opportunity. In America, the problem is to continue and to preserve that tradition. Where there is no tremendous gulf between incomes, it is nearer realization than in states where a handful pile up enormous fortunes and enjoy enormous incomes, while all the rest live sparingly.

Only the fact that the great mass of people either directly depend upon farming, or indirectly look to it, accounts for the situation of a more even distribution of wealth. That is the reason so frequently it is said agriculture is a vital necessity to democracy. In its influence upon habits, upon living standards, and upon thought, it provides a backbone for democracy.

NOT A REGULAR FELLAR.

THIS is taken from the notebook of a Santa Claus in one of the department stores in Lincoln.

Santa was approached by the leader of a small group of boys, a sturdy youngster about ten or twelve years of age, who engaged the be-whiskered prince of childhood days in conversation. Santa told the lad that he had two black marks against his record in the ledger—one for the failure to wash his teeth one morning, and other because he did not get out of bed promptly for breakfast. But the boy was equal to the occasion.

"Come on, gang," he said to his comrades with a wave of his hand, "this chap doesn't know a regular feller when he sees him."

This same Santa will know better than to talk ledger accounts with a certain prim little miss who miraculously still places implicit faith in the sweet story of old St. Nicholas. He had told the little girl there was only one black mark in the ledger against her when she broke into tears. The more Santa tried to comfort her, the harder she cried. The efforts of her mother also were in vain. Finally, there came the inspiration that perhaps a realistic ceremony would atone, and so Santa sent for a ledger, promptly proceeded to tear a page from it, and the little girl was again all smiles.

AS TO CANAL BUILDING.

ABOUT the last thing the United States needs at this particular time is a ship canal across Nicaragua. Our government threw enough money away keeping the marines there for a period of years in a futile attempt to suppress revolutionary activities and establish some degree of stability in the country. We have given up that undertaking as a bad job and written off the cost on our books. Talk about going in now and spending three-quarters of a billion dollars for the development of an ocean trade route just simply doesn't make common sense.

We already have the Panama canal, which is much shorter than the proposed Nicaragua waterway, is already paid for, and is ample in size to accommodate all waterborne traffic. Whenever the time comes that the movement of seagoing commerce demands greater facilities the Panama canal can be widened and new locks installed for a fraction of the outlay which would be required to build an entirely new ditch through Nicaragua. Maintenance of one canal, also, is obviously much cheaper than of two.

There is the further objection that the Panama cannal has been detrimental, rather than helpful, to the interior region of the United States, and if an alternative route were provided the measure of injury suffered by this section would be still greater. From the standpoint of the middle west, two canals certainly would not be better than one.

A much more desirable plan of waterway development, and one which would really benefit the central area, is the great lakes-St. Lawrence seaway. This would enable ocean vessels to penetrate 1,000 miles into the interior and to load and unload cargoes at Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, Superior, Detroit, Cleveland, Toledo, Buffalo, Rochester, and other manufacturing and trade centers that now have no access by all-water shipment to the ports of any other country except Canada. Products of American farms, forests, mines, and mills would thus have the advantage of cheap transportation to foreign markets which is now denied them.

Nebraska and other states having no frontage on the great lakes would receive some of the benefit of this opening up of world commerce, through the shortening of the rail haul on its products shipped abroad as well as to the mills and consuming centers in the eastern states. The St. Lawrence waterway, at the same time, would afford valuable connections with the Mississippi-Missouri river system of barge line freight transportation now being built up.

Whatever canal-building may be done by Uncle Sam in the near future should be done nearer home than in Central America, where it will be of some value to his own folks. He can't afford to throw away money on vast public works to build up some other country too backward to do anything for itself.

AN OBSTACLE TO TRADE.

IN DESPERATION, New York City adopted a retail sales tax of 2 per cent to fill its depleted coffers. There was an immediate need of 60 million dollars for unemployment relief, and apparently no other source of revenue open. And there is danger that under pressure by the relief administration, other communities may commit a similar mistake.

As the Kansas City Star correctly says, "the tax is certain to prove an obstacle to trade. It will be a nuisance to the merchant who must collect it, and to their customers who will resent the passing of the tax along to them, which the ordinance requires. Theoretically, if not actually, it will leave the residents of the city paying more for their goods than residents of other parts of the state would pay, either for purchases within their own communities or within New York City itself—the latter exemption being made for outsiders in an effort to avoid driving business away from the city."

HIDDEN TREASURE.

MICHAEL BURDI and his wife worked hard all their lives. They saved every cent they could for the days when they could no longer earn. Little by little their savings grew. Each time they had accumulated $1,000 they exchanged it for a $1,000 bill and secreted it in their strong box at the bank. A few weeks ago they placed their seventh $1,000 bill in the box.

Then they got to worrying about their money. It represented the fruits of a lifetime. Finally they figured it would be safer if it were hidden in their home where they could watch it. They brought it home and put it in an old box. But they grew to distrust their neighbors, and pinned blankets over the windows. They moved about stealthily. They dodged their neighbors whenever possible.

They returned home a few days ago, and the money was gone. Officers told them it looked like a neighborhood job. This gave them hope. Instead of being watched, they started doing the watching. Soon three neighborhood youths blossomed forth in sudden and inexplicable finery. The Burdis told their suspicions to the police. The boys denied taking the $7,000, but a shrewd officer tripped one of them up by telling him his sweetheart had "talked." It was a good hunch and it worked, although the girl knew nothing about the robbery. But it made the boy confess.

Six of the $1,000 bills were recovered, and all but $260 of the seventh. The Burdis are happy again, and as soon as they get their money from the property clerk they are going straight to the bank with it.

FLYING AT 600 MILES AN HOUR.

WILEY POST'S recent stratosphere flight in Oklahoma probably heralds one of the greatest steps in future aviation. That step means the terrific speed which can be attained in the thin upper air.

Post estimated his plane was traveling about 350 miles an hour, or six miles a minute, in the stratosphere. He believed he was nearly ten miles up, at which altitude there is little resistance.

Commenting on Post's flight, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker predicted transcontinental flights at ten miles a minute. He said he believed planes would be built to fly in the sub-stratosphere at about 25,000 feet. At great heights the danger of storms will be practically eliminated since storms are rare at that altitude.

But there will be difficulties to overcome for both passengers and planes flying in the stratosphere. Wiley Post wore a suit similar to a deep sea diver's outfit to keep ground level pressures on his body. Moreover the temperature at the top of his flight was 70 degrees below zero.

If Rickenbacker's prediction of flying 600 miles an hour in the stratosphere comes true, planes would cross the continent or the ocean in five hours. The traveler could leave Lincoln after breakfast and be in Paris for dinner the same evening.

And it is entirely possible. Rickenbacker flew a 14-passenger plane from coast to coast a few weeks ago in 12 hours. In 1920 he made the same trip in a single passenger plane in 38 hours.

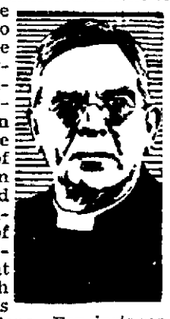
QUESTION.
Roanoke, Va.
Is there really a new nation arising in Russia?

ANSWER.

Certainly there is a new nationalism grafted on to an old nation and one of its chief indications is found in the movement to organize the leisure of Soviet youth. Important concessions have been made to the aspirations of the young in that vast and obscure country. Some of these concessions are at variance with communism's earlier conceptions. For instance, according to report in the "London Times" two years ago, sanction was given to young communists to wear collars and neckties, cultivate a love for music and flowers and also for their own individuality. Up-to-date amusements, jazz and modern dances which were not tolerated a decade ago have now gained a footing. Comrade de Kosareff describes this emancipating process from a cruder phase as follows:



"If you go into one of our parks of culture you will understand what I mean. From the first step you will be hemmed in by red cultural corners, whippers in, organizers of collective dancing and collective singing. Amusements are impossible for you unless you take them collectively. This element of bureaucratic mass culture must be torn out by the roots. We work hard in a communistic spirit. We must have sensible, useful recreation, too."

The importance of drawing young Russia into the revolutionary temper was recognized by the bolshevist government as far back as 1917. Lenin realized that his crusade depended for its success on the rising generation. Hence children were given authority over their parents and school teachers were subjected to committees of their own pupils. Parental teaching control was repudiated and the usual forms of home life were decreed to be evil things to which the youngsters should not submit.

High rank in civil and military life was awarded to comparatively young people, in many instances to mere boys having no previous experience. There was method in this seeming madness. It has produced a generation in the Russian school of turmoil and experiment which is perfectly sure of itself. They are convinced they are the possessors of a new life and that they alone know how to act in all situations arising as a consequence thereof. Such is the Russia of tomorrow which will have to be reckoned with by the world.

QUESTION.
Oakland, Calif.
What would you advise a father to do who wishes to give his son a college education thus going against the opinion of the rest of the family? They quote the words of a university president to the effect that "the upright, clean, aggressive citizens of California and the west never have been drawn together from the ranks of college graduates, never will be and never should be." What good, then, are those costly educational institutions?

ANSWER.

I presume the speaker was protesting against forcing unsuitable youths through college for social reasons rather than for their cultural development, in which case he was right and the facts in such instances support him. It is too often forgotten that no institution can educate any mind without that mind's consent and co-operation. As a matter of fact, every individual educates himself or herself and the facilities provided by colleges are but aids to that end.

The first thing you have to determine is, will your son respond favorably to college training and influence and seize the opportunity to study which higher education will place before him. When that is decided the problem is solved. Unfortunately a sizeable percentage of undergraduates simply waste their time and opportunities. Should he enter college convinced that he has to turn on the full steam of his energies and that he must take advantage of the wise guidance at his disposal, he cannot fail to better himself in every way.

The second thing to be kept steadily before you and him is that education is intended not solely for the acquisition of knowledge, but for the attainment of the wisdom of which knowledge is an accessory. Its vigorous pursuit leads to the student's correct self-appraisal and to the right use and investment of what powers he possesses. The unlit lamp and the ungirt loin are the frustrations of life as it should be lived. In so far as higher education meets the demands of this kind of life it is an inestimable gain. But do not yield to the delusion that such education is per se a boon and a blessing for all who are supposed to receive it.

Quite otherwise, it is vainly offered to certain types of youth who are immune to its primary requirements. They have to begin where they should have begun four years earlier and make up for the loss of time and experience as best they can.

HOW SKULL STRUCTURE EFFECTS VOICE TONES.

I wonder whether the nose and throat specialists still pay as much attention to the care of the throats of singers and actors as that fine old gentleman Morell Mackenzie.

Dr. Clendening

Morell Mackenzie was one of the founders of the new science of laryngology, which indeed, itself, might have been said to have been founded by a singing master. Morell Mackenzie was a great friend of all singers and actors, and it is said never charged any of them a fee, from Sir Henry Irving down. He had definite opinions as to how the voice should be trained and treated.

Of course, it is largely a medical subject—this matter of the training of the voice. A pleasant speaking voice or a good singing voice depends upon many factors. Probably the least important of all is the larynx, with its contained vocal cords. Of course, if these become thickened as in chronic laryngitis, or congested as in acute laryngitis, if a growth appears upon one, or an ulceration, the voice is ruined.

But I am speaking of conditions apart from such accidents of disease. Nearly anyone can produce sounds of about the same quality for singing and speaking in the vocal cords themselves. To put it another way one person's vocal cords are about the same as another's. But people crowded to pay $10 to hear Caruso sing, and I once was offered $20 to stop.

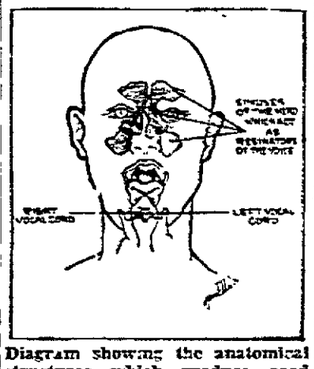

Diagram showing the anatomical structures which produce good singing voice.

No! The two most important equipments of the great singer are different—first, a good musical ear and, second, resonance in the cavities of the bones of the skull. It is said that the Italians have the most beautiful voices on earth because of their racial characteristics. They have large heads, thin bones and enormous air spaces in the different sinuses. On the contrary, the Australian aborigine has the most monotonous and unpleasant voice, because the thickness of his skull and skull bones has narrowed the skull cavities so that they do not produce resonance.

These cavities occur one on each side under the cheek bones, the maxillary sinuses, which are the largest and most important. Above, over the eyes, are the frontal sinuses, but the entire framework of the back of the nose is a labyrinth of cavities like a sounding chamber. It is the vibration of the air in these cavities that produces overtones which make the difference between good singing and bad singing. It is for that reason that singers are taught to throw the voice up to the roof of the mouth just behind the front teeth.

I have been told by a famous nose and throat man that Caruso had the clearest and largest sinuses of any human being he ever examined, an anatomical circumstance which undoubtedly accounted for his remarkable singing voice.

REUNION.

She was young when last we met
More than forty years ago
When I'd hoped to be her beau;
And I noticed with regret
That her hair was white as snow.

"Gone," thought I, "the maiden fair!
On her cheeks today appears
All the sorrow of the years!
It is strange how lovers care
After beauty disappears!"

Have I altered 'neath the touch
Of the years so swiftly flown?
Have the burdens I have known
Really changed me very much?
Then she said: "How fat you're grown!

"Oh, I can't believe it true
That such changes time can bring
With their joy and sorrowing!
I'd have never known 'twas you,
You were such a skinny thing."

Military Training.

FAIRBURY, Neb., Dec. 15—To the editor of The Lincoln Star: My temperature having somewhat subsided from its peak of last evening, I shall endeavor to frame a suitable reply to a letter which appeared in your columns bewailing a decision of the California supreme court, which upheld compulsory military training.

When I had digested Mr. Van Meter's masterpiece, which stated that by favoring military training land grant schools showed that they did not want Methodist boys, I could but fervently hope that the writer represented a very small minority in said faith.

In the first place Mr. Van Meter is very sadly mistaken if he believes, as he seems to, that the modicum of compulsory military training received in one of our universities is sufficient to instill a war-like attitude in its recipients. On the contrary, however, it does give the boys a taste of much-needed discipline, help them to walk erect, straighten rounded shoulders and it gives to some of them an exercise which they would not otherwise get.

It was the writer's privilege to have spent three years in one of the United States Service schools, which he believes is the best thing that ever happened to him from both a mental and physical standpoint. The training along military lines in one of these school is far more intense than anything a young man will get at a university, but it left the writer with no jingoistic priciples.

Mr. Van Meter also stated that Methodist boys should go to a school that gave them an education, rather than compelling them to spend most of their time in military training. He is evidently someone not cognizant of the way military training is conducted in our universities, because had he taken the time to investigate, he could easily have discovered that a very small percentage of the young man's time is alloted to this phase of his development.

Too many conscientious objectors haye been sprouting in our country the past few years, and it seems to me that many of us need a good old-fashioned dose of the kind of patriotism which carried our forefathers through the Revolutionary war.

Deeds and Wills.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 15.

An answer to the 'Sound Mind and Memory.' Your comment, is that deeds and bills of sale of instruments of some kind should be made by every sound-minded person before his demise. You are citing the statute law of Nebraska as you read it from the statutes. But many of those cases you have cited were overruled by the Supreme court of the state.

I myself am interested at the present time in a case of this kind. When a deed or will is made contrary to law it is void. Some times it would be very much better if wills were not made. Often times they are more wrong than right.

The supreme court sustained the Seward county court in holding that the heirs of the wife are the only heirs and not the heirs of the father. If this ruling is correct the father would not be empowered to devise the property as the whole estate vests in the heirs of the mother. In this case a will or deed conveyed by the father would be void. The court in the same proceeding set out who the heirs are and those who were excluded. Half-blood and grandchildren to the estate were excluded as heirs and so considered as colateral heirs only. The heirs apparent were the only heirs. The statutes of Nebraska provide that the surviving spouse shall have the rights of one-third of all of the real estate if there are two or more children.

Soldiers' Bonus.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 15.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In discussions of the so-called soldier's bonus one occasionally hears something to this effect: "Every other group in the country is receiving relief—why not the veterans?"

This classification of America's defenders with the unemployed and needy, who are receiving government aid is not only erroneous, it is unfair. Adjusted service certificates, commonly called the "bonus" do not come under the head of either gifts or charity. They are, instead, promissory notes signed by the United States government itself. They represent an acknowledged debt on the part of this government to the men, many of whom were boys, who left jobs, schools, mothers, wives, sweethearts, and their all to face the horrors of war to defend this country.

In other words, adjusted service certificates are exactly what their name describes. They are certificates, issued by the federal government to world war veterans, for the purpose of equalizing the wages paid this nation's soldiers, sailors and marines, and the wages received by civilian laborers in 1917-18. Therefore, they are asking no favors. They simply ask seven years after the war, for some such adjustment in their war time pay as had already been made in the case of railroads, war contractors, government civilian employes and thousands of others whom the government has paid millions of dollars to in cash immediately after the war—in 1919 and 1920.

Remember, congress acknowledged this debt to its soldiers in 1925, but it postponed payment for twenty years. Unfortunately, veterans, as a class, died so much more quickly than non-service men of the same age, that few if any will be alive in 1945 to receive the money due them. I ask you, Mr. and Mrs. Public, to stop and think, can you refuse these men the small sum due them? Let these poor comrades enjoy some relief while they still have the courage to do it. Remember, these men have not lost faith in you and this government.

Adjusted service certificates constitute a public debt, and they should be paid at once. If we can find money enough for all the relief experiments and recovery programs surely we can find funds to redeem this pledge to the nation's defenders! God bless them! Comrades living and comrades dead, I salute you! JAMES L. STROUD, commander Charles Fraley Post, 1450 V. F. W.

Lower Land Taxes.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 15.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: There is much tumult and shouting among those seeking still more tax "relief" for the big landed interests but before our commercial and business people travel further along that road, let them stop for a minute and size things up.

Every citizen should know and remember that we have but two possible sources of public revenue, however numerous the tax channels draining them. These, of course, are ground rent (not building rent) and taxes on labor products—buildings, crops, merchandise, machinery, etc.

Obviously, the less ground rent we take from land holders, the more tax must we get from manufacturers, farmers, merchants, teachers, mechanics, clerks, stenographers, truckers and others.

Now, ground rent is produced only by the people as a whole. Therefore, it rightfully belongs to the public, not to land holders. This public fund totals many billions annually and should go into the public treasury, not into private pockets. Thus taken and used in public service, in lieu of taxes on industry, it would meet every public need and provide complete tax exemption for every useful enterprise.

Instead of thus using it, however, for decades we have given more and more of it away and thus have necessitated ever increasing industrial taxes until, now, capital is well-nigh bankrupt and labor is impoverished, with millions living on charity. Our alarming social problem of poverty, slums, crime and graft, our ruined companies, idle plants and hordes of landless unemployed should warn us that we have taken the wrong course and are headed for destruction.

Yet, we are being urged to continue on this course at even greater speed, to give the landed interests still more of our public fund and to lay still heavier taxes on our exhausted industrial system.

Are we stark, staring, raving mad? Does not reason warn us to stop? No not all considerations of human welfare and public interest demand that we reverse our stupid course, that we insist on having that which is our own and quit robbing both capital and labor thru taxes that are destroying our whole industrial system?

In Progress and Poverty, Henry George makes clear that we now are taking the course that has destroyed nations and civilizations of the past. Can we not learn from their mistakes? Can we not profit thru their fatal experience?

"This Liquor Question."

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 15.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: November 6, we the people of Nebraska decided by a large majority to allow liquor to again be used legally. You notice I say, "to again be used legally." Anyone that really understands this liquor proposition, knows beyond a doubt that we never did get rid of liquor. We have always had it. The only thing that prohibition did was to make people do their drinking on the sneak. This is absolutely the truth. I know that ministers of the gospel will say: Oh, yes, he is one of those fellows who wants his liquor. I say to the ministers this: The preacher has enough to do, to try and mind his own affairs. I believe if the preacher would get up in his pulpit and talk in a natural voice to his flock, using good common sense with it, he would get along much better. I don't need to describe how many of our beloved ministers do. They never miss the chance to inform you that you might die and you must be very careful. I believe if he used more intelligence while in the pulpit and refrained from using such an unpleasant subject, he would see more people coming through those church doors. I for one would like to see them take politics out of the pulpit. If a preacher wishes to enter into politics, let him get out of the church. When the legislature convenes, heres hoping the members are able to get to their seats without being trampled to death. I do not say that all ministers are politically inclined, but A CHRISTIAN.

The Middle Road.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 15.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: This controversy of our religious leaders may be confusing and discouraging to some reader who may be seeking some safe guide to follow. I myself used to be at sea on these subjects and have devoted much time and study to the various phases of theological and philosophical thought. Consequently these outbursts no longer startle nor confound me.

I consider Dr. Cadman a safe guide to follow. He is not infallible and does not claim to be. In all our personal problems it is wise to get the best human advice we can find but the final decision with each must be the voice of God speaking direct to the mind and conscience of each one facing each individual problem of life.

Rationalists and fundamentalists I see as realists and idealists. The radical thinker or agnostic as well as the rational scientist seek to analyze everything and judge it by their five senses. They take things apart, lay them out before us, and say that is all there is to life. They assert that human nature and the world are the same as they ever were and think it is vain to try to change it. Some may admit a slow evolution to the better and possibly after a million years things may become ideal here on earth. That being the case they see no use in striving to hasten that ideal as it can't be prematurely brought in. Such viewpoint often leads into the Epicurien philosophy of life—'eat, drink, and be merry for tomorrow you die.'

On the other extreme is the idealist. He is the absolutist. He refuses to take anything relatively or see growth and slow development. His concept of creation is one of fiat and made perfect in the first place and through sin become what it is now. He would like to realize the ideal fully and now. The presence of the imperfect in the world and in himself annoys and irritates him. He sees a dual universe of two conflicting powers active for good and for evil. He sees the world as hopelessly evil and doomed to destruction. He expects to be snatched up with the elect out of this evil world and placed into a new and ideal place. He sees science and all progress only as deceptions and wiles of the devil. To him the world is growing worse. To him Dr. Cadman is the devil in disguise.

Personally I take the middle ground between the above two extremes. I believe Dr. Cadman has a grip on the ideal or rather the ideal has a grip on him, but at the same time he is keeping his feet on the ground. He is striving to lift the everyday and prosaic to a higher level and transform it by the infusion of the ideal into it. He sees the finger of God in everything and a divine plan working itself out through all its outward material and spiritual manifestations. His God is not defeated. He sees man as God's helper or hinderer as it may be. To grow moral characters God had to allow this freedom of choice. I believe the ideal order can be hastened or prolonged in proportion to the loyalty or rebellion to God's plan that his free creatures-men choose to follow. When we have enough of these free wills yield themselves to follow the highest ideal they see we will have the ideal order made real here and now. Then the idealists themselves will feel at home and cease to wish for another world to go to to realize it.

In their impatience with the real and denunciation of the plodding realists the idealists make themselves to be hinderers to the coming of the ideal kingdom rather than a help.

COUNCIL BANS "WALKATHONS"

Emergency Ordinance Is Passed To Prevent "Contest."

The lid was clamped down on walkathons and other types of endurance contests, by the city council Monday afternoon with the passage on three readings of an ordinance prohibiting such entertainments between midnight and 8 a. m., and Sundays. An emergency clause was attached to the measure to prevent a "sprint contest" which had been scheduled to open here Thursday.

The council also passed on third reading an ordinance reducing from $75 to $37.50 the occupation tax on theaters with a seating capacity of 500 or less.

City Attorney Kier was directed to appeal the compensation award of $15 per week for 300 weeks to Harry H. Craig, a city fireman. Craig claimed he was injured whiled ragging a hose at a fire.

Adolph Hock was to be granted a license for the on and off sale of beer at 1330 O street. Harry R. Stork was denied a dance license at 1333 High street, and the Program Service Co. was given a permit to install loudspeakers at St. Paul Methodist church to broadcast musical programs until December 25.

At an informal conference of the council Monday morning, L. C. Oberlies, head of the park department, was authorized to purchase a tractor to be used at the city dump, the one now in use having worn out. The post will be $495. The motor of the old tractor will be used in pumping water from Haines branch to the new lake in Pioneers park.

SAAR DISTRICT IS TENSE AFTER A STREET FIGHT

SAARBRUECKEN, Sarr Territory, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Rigid precautions to prevent clashes between international troops and Saarlanders were adopted today after bitter resentment was aroused by an Anglo-native street fight.

A resident of the Saar was wounded by a British police officer's pistol yesterday, and in the resulting scuffle, the officer and an English nobelman were beaten.

The incident created alarm with the Saar already tense over the January 13 plebiscite which will decide its future. It came as the League of Nations moved an international army into the territory to preserve order during the vote.

When news of the shooting and subsequent beatings filtered through the Saar, the German front, a nazi organization, called special meetings of protest.

A quick investigation was ordered by the league governing commission, which announced the suspension of Captain James Justice, the officer involved, until completion of the inquiry.

The trouble began early Sunday when Justice's car, bearing also the Earl of Aylesford and Fraulein Kathe Braun, a German girl, hit a woman.

The street clash followed by only a few hours an appeal by the league commission for a political truce in order to avoid imposition of martial law.

Break In Natural Gas Pipeline At Clarion, No Effects Felt Here

CLARION, Ia., Dec. 17—(AP)—Service over the natural gas pipeline which exploded in a field near here yesterday was resumed early today after workmen succeeded in repairing the damage.

The explosion, for which no explanation was found, hurtled a section of pipe 10 feet long 500 feet and created a large crater at the scene.

Many residences were without gas as result of the accident as a crew of approximately 25 workmen, many summoned from Omaha, labored to replace the pipe. The line, a 20-inch pipe, is the principal artery of a system which originates in Texas and runs as far north as Duluth, Minn.

Although the natural gas used in Lincoln is supplied by the same pipe line, which runs from the Texas panhandle, through Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa and Minnesota, the break did not affect service in this area, officials of the Northern Natural Gas company in Lincoln, declared. The pipe which supplies the Lincoln demands, branches off of the main line at Palmyra, southeast of Lincoln.

Man Shot In Leg By Police Recovering

Harry Cooper, 34, colored, shot in the left leg as he ran from police who sought him for investigation, was reported to be recovering in St. Elizabeth's hospital Monday morning.

A bullet from the .38 caliber special pistol in the hands of Officer Emil Conley stopped Cooper's flight near Eighth and S streets about 3 o'clock Sunday morning after Conley and Officer Harry Davis had chased the man nearly three blocks.

The bullet entered the man's left leg and plowed its way up to the knee, where it emerged. Dr. Lynn Sharrar is attending Cooper.

Cooper was shot after he and a companion were stopped near Ninth and S streets by Officers Conley and Davis for questioning.

As the police car came to a stop, Night Captain Rowden said, Cooper walked around the front of it and appeared to be going over towards the driver, then broke into a run.

Conley said he fired twice in the ground and once in the air as he chased the man.

Detectives Al Hartman and Joe Carroll found a small .38 caliber gun near Ninth and S.

Chief Condit and Captain Rowden talked to Cooper Sunday night and the man gave his "nervous disposition and his tendency to run whenever he saw officers" as the reason for his flight.

University Choral Union Presents Handel's 'Messiah' Before Crowd Of Over 6,000 At Coliseum Sunday

More than 6,000 persons streamed into the University of Nebraska coliseum Sunday afternoon to hear the university choral union's 39th annual presentation of George Frederick Handel's Christmas story in song, "The Messiah."

It was believed to be a record-breaking attendance, university officials said. Many out of town cars were among those parked for blocks around the building.

Two Chicago singers, Mary Ann Kaufman, soprano, and Louise Harrison Slade, contralto, were guest soloists this year. Parvin Witte, tenor, and Herman F. Decker, bass, both of the school of music faculty, had the male solo parts. Prof. Howard Kirkpatrick, director of the school of music, conducted the oratorio, sung by more than 300 voices.

Accompanying the singers was the Lincoln Symphony orchestra, with Fleda Graham Ziegenbein at the piano. Many Lincoln vocalists and the college of agriculture chorus directed by Altinas Tullis assisted the university chorus.

Swelling to a climax in the powerful "Halleluiah" finale, impressively sung as the audience stood, the choristers made the Christmas story vivid. The four-part musical narrative was well done throughout, and repeatedly the audience tendered spontaneous applause, despite a program request that none be given.

At the end of the performance, the soloists were also honored with applause from the chorus. All the singers earned the tributes paid them, with the clarity of choral diction being particularly outstanding.

Outside the coliseum during the program, snow was sifting down and it may have been gloomy. Inside the huge building, there was the color of great music, rising and falling in a twilight that ended on a stage gleaming with the white robes of women in the chorus.

For special twilight atmosphere there were the muted strings of the "Pastoral Symphony," deserving of laurels.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.

Three hundred and eighteen letters, only one ever heard of before, will be sold at auction. Napoleon wrote them to his second wife, Marie Louise, daughter of the Austrian emperor, mother of the unfortunate "King of Rome."

In spite of bad spelling and worse grammar, every one of these letters will be read eagerly. Napoleon never wrote a dull letter.

The one in the lot known to historians, intercepted and given to Bluecher, told Bluecher of Napoleon's plan to drive the enemy from Paris by marching toward the Marne. That was what Bluecher wanted to know, and then he sent the letter to Marie Louise later, with an apology for reading it. That letter may have changed the destinies of France and Napoleon.

The old advice: "Never write a letter and never destroy one," contains wisdom.

Mr. Joseph J. Fiske, observes that among the "one hundred and eighty-one who had incomes of a million dollars a year during the war, the Jews may be counted on the fingers of one hand." He thinks this interferes with Hitler's theory that members of the Jewish race control the world's money and own most of it.

That theory, of course, is nonsense. There is no Jew among the richest men in the United States, who are, or were until recently, John D. Rockefeller, Andrew W. Mellon, Henry Ford and George F. Baker. In Europe, no Rothschild is any longer "the richest man," although once a Rothschild was the richest.

Tabernacle Dedication Services Held Sunday

The "first real home" of the Central Tabernacle, Christian and Missionary alliance, was dedicated Sunday as more than 500 attended services in the new building at 3021 O street. Rev. R. R. Brown, Omaha, preached the dedicatory sermon Sunday afternoon on the text "God is with us."

First services in the building were held Sunday morning, little more than 12 hours after construction work ended, with Rev. R. L. Tressler speaking on "The Church—Her Message and Program."

Rev. C. H. Shaw of Palestine described boom conditions in "Jerusalem and Palestine" as the evening speaker. Recently returned from five years there as missionary, student and traveler, Rev. Shaw showed colored slides picturing the historic land.

At the afternoon dedicatory program, Rev. George French of Havelock Tabernacle led devotionals, and a trio and quartet sang. Miss Catherine Crancer, Miss Margaret Ruisnes and Miss Pollyanna Deeter comprised the trio. In the quartet were James Bachman, Helen Neufeld, and Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Stavland. Miss June Barkey played several marimbaphone numbers.

N. U. Co-ed's Football Balloon Blows to Minn.

Uncle Sam's postal service finished the travelog of a toy balloon Saturday when a letter was delivered to Marjorie Smith, University of Nebraska co-ed. In the letter was the travel-stained balloon and a note from Thomas Hicks, of Remer, Minn., asking why it should have been found in a grove near his home, with a Lincoln address on it still legible.

Only the winds that blew on Saturday, November 24, know the answer, but the occasion of the balloon's flight is no mystery. On that day Miss Smith flung the sphere into the air when Nebraska made its first touchdown against Missouri in the Homecoming day game.

2 Army Fliers Killed

BURLINGAME, Cal., Dec. 17—(AP)—Investigation of an airplane plunge in which Lieut. William C. Reeves, son of Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, was carried to a flaming death was under way here today.

The 25-year-old army flier and a flight companion, Sgt. Noel Aubrey Peterson, 37, Freedom, Okla., were killed when their plane crashed on a crowded highway on the outskirts of Burlingame yesterday.

Motorists who witnessed the accident, said Lieutenant Reeves apparently became lost in the mist and was attempting to find a place to land.

CANDLE-LIGHT SERVICE HELD

Many Attend Christmas Ceremony at First Presbyterian.

The annual candle-light service of the First Presbyterian church attracted a capacity audience Sunday afternoon and late comers were forced to stand in the rear of the church to view the traditional ceremony. With the customary ritual, the candles in the center aisle of the church and the many candles in the open chancel were lighted.

The ceremony began at 4 p. m, when a brass quartet sounded out carols from the turret of the church. Then the chancel and the transept choirs took up the music as the candle lighting began. The scripture readings were given by Rev. Paul Calhoun, Helen Severa and Bob Holland. The girl's choir sang an anthem after which the huge Christmas candle which has been burning at Christmas for the past five years was lighted during songs by the two choirs.

Dr. Paul Calhoun gave a Christmas message in which he pleaded that this be not a commonplace Christmas, but that this be one in which God be felt and seen.

Young people had charge of the service, assisted by the two choirs, Miss Grace Finch, Mrs. James E. Lawrence and Oscar Bennett. Christmas anthems sounded through the church as the ceremony was carried out.

Mrs. Marie Smith, 84, Cortland Resident for Half Century, Is Dead

Mrs. Marie Smith, 84, resident of Cortland for nearly a half century, died at the home of a daughter there, Mrs. M. J. Jungmeyer, at 12:45 o'clock Monday morning. Born in Germany, she came to America 68 years ago. She was a member of the Cortland Methodist church and of the O. E. S.

She is survived by two other daughters, Mrs. H. G. Leist of Mount Pleasant, Ia. and Mrs. J. S. Wehrli of Boulder Col.; three sons, Henry and Edwin Pothast of Lincoln and Fred L. Pothast of Pickrell; 15 grandchildren and 16 great grandchildren.

The body is at Hodgman's mortuary.

Cattle Feeding Still At Half of 1933 Basis

Cattle feeding operations in Nebraska as of December 1 were at the level of approximately 50 per cent below a year ago, according to A. E. Anderson, state and federal agricultural statistician, with the unfavorable market price of cattle and the high prices of hay and forage continuing to discourage expansion.

Leapyear Is Burned On Hands Trying to Put Out Fire in Car

Howard Leapyear, mechanic in the Havelock Chevrolet garage, 6033 Havelock avenue, was burned slightly about the hands as he attempted to extinguish a fire in a car belonging to Gayle Cassady, 6501 Platte avenue, in the garage Sunday evening.

The fire, which originated when radiator fluid leaked on a hot motor, burned all the wires about the motor, the insulation on the car radio set and damaged the hood slightly.

Cassady was driving along the street when he discovered the fire and turned into the garage. The garage is immediately across the street from Fire Barn No. 7.

Funeral Services For I. N. Whitely Monday

Funeral services for Issiah Nixon Whitely, 84, who died at his home, 5403 Stockwell street, Sunday morning, were held at 3 o'clock Monday afternoon at the College View church, Elder J. H. Schilling officiating. Interment was in the College View cemetery. Mr. Whitely, who had lived in Lincoln for 44 years, was a retired dairyman. He was born March 3, 1850 in Canada. His widow, Mary Whitely, is the only surviving relative.

Lincoln Couple Wed Although Car First Hurtles Into 15-Foot Ditch

On the record somewhere is the one about the path of love being marred with ruts and jolts, but Robert Barkley, 20, and his bride, probably are convinced that something should be added about the 15-foot ditches along the sides.

Robert and his wife, who last night was Dorothy Mika, of Lincoln, were en route to Omaha Sunday evening to be secretly married when the car in which they were riding, skidded on slick pavement and tumbled down a deep ditch near Millard. Robert and Dorothy were injured but Wayne Smack, 2137 North Thirtieth street, driver and only other occupant of the car, escaped with bruises. The bride's leg was injured and the groom suffered three fractured ribs.

A deputy sheriff helped dig the young people from the wreckage and after they had received medical attention at an Omaha hospital, located a preacher.

Robert, or rather Mr. Barkley, who is an employe of the Joint Stock Land bank here of which his uncle, W. E. Barkley is president, insisted on going to the office Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Barkley will make their home at 825 South Eleventh street with the former's mother. Mrs. Robert Barkley formerly lived at Friend.

Mrs. Smalley Dies; Lived Here 29 Years

Mrs. Sarah Marie Bignell Smalley, 70, a resident of Lincoln for more than 29 years, died Sunday morning at her home, 7042 Burlington avenue. Mrs. Smalley, born January 21, 1864 in England came to Lincoln in 1905.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Pamelia Bignell of Lincoln, who will be 91 years old on her next birthday; two sons, William Smalley of Coffeyville, Kas. and George Smalley of Lincoln; two daughters, Mrs. Julia Jones and Mrs. Minnie Bloom, both of Lincoln; five brothers, Arthur, William, Edwin, Joe and Jack Bignell, all of Lincoln; and eight grandchildren.

"My Hat's Off to the WORLD'S HIGHEST FLYING GASOLINE" says WILEY POST

Phillips 77 AVIATION

NEW AIRPLANE-TYPE GASOLINE FOR AUTOMOBILES MAKES MOTORS START FASTER AND RUN BETTER

Front page headlines . . . movie news reels . . . radio news flashes . . . all have featured the amazing stratosphere flight made by the famous round-the-world aviator.

Returning from his thrilling hop, which proved that the Winnie Mae was as good at the "high jump" as she had been at the "broad jump," Wiley Post modestly said: "Don't forget to give a lot of credit to this Phillips flying fuel. It sure gave me the extra lift I needed to climb fast. My hat is off to the world's highest flying gasoline."

And this is the gasoline, similar to the finest grades supplied by Phillips for U. S. Army fighting planes—adapted for use in automobiles—which you now can have for your car.

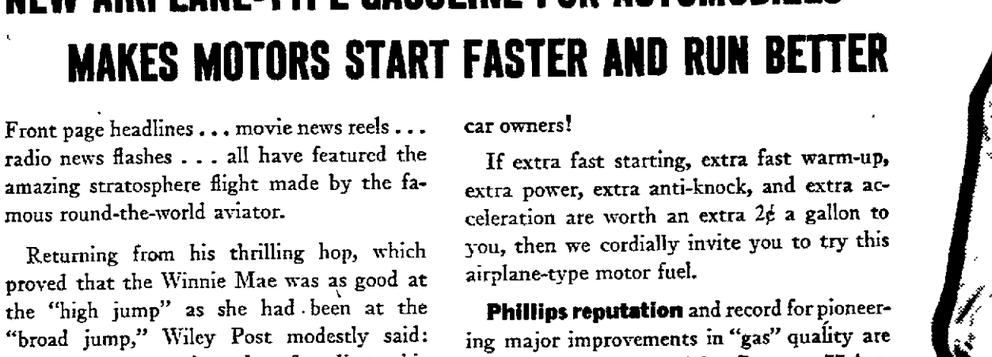
PHILLIPS 77 AVIATION is a vastly improved premium motor fuel, 100 per cent natural gasoline. A specialized Winter gasoline of superlative quality. Its volatility and anti-knock ratings are not merely extremely high; they are unsurpassed by any gas now offered to car owners!

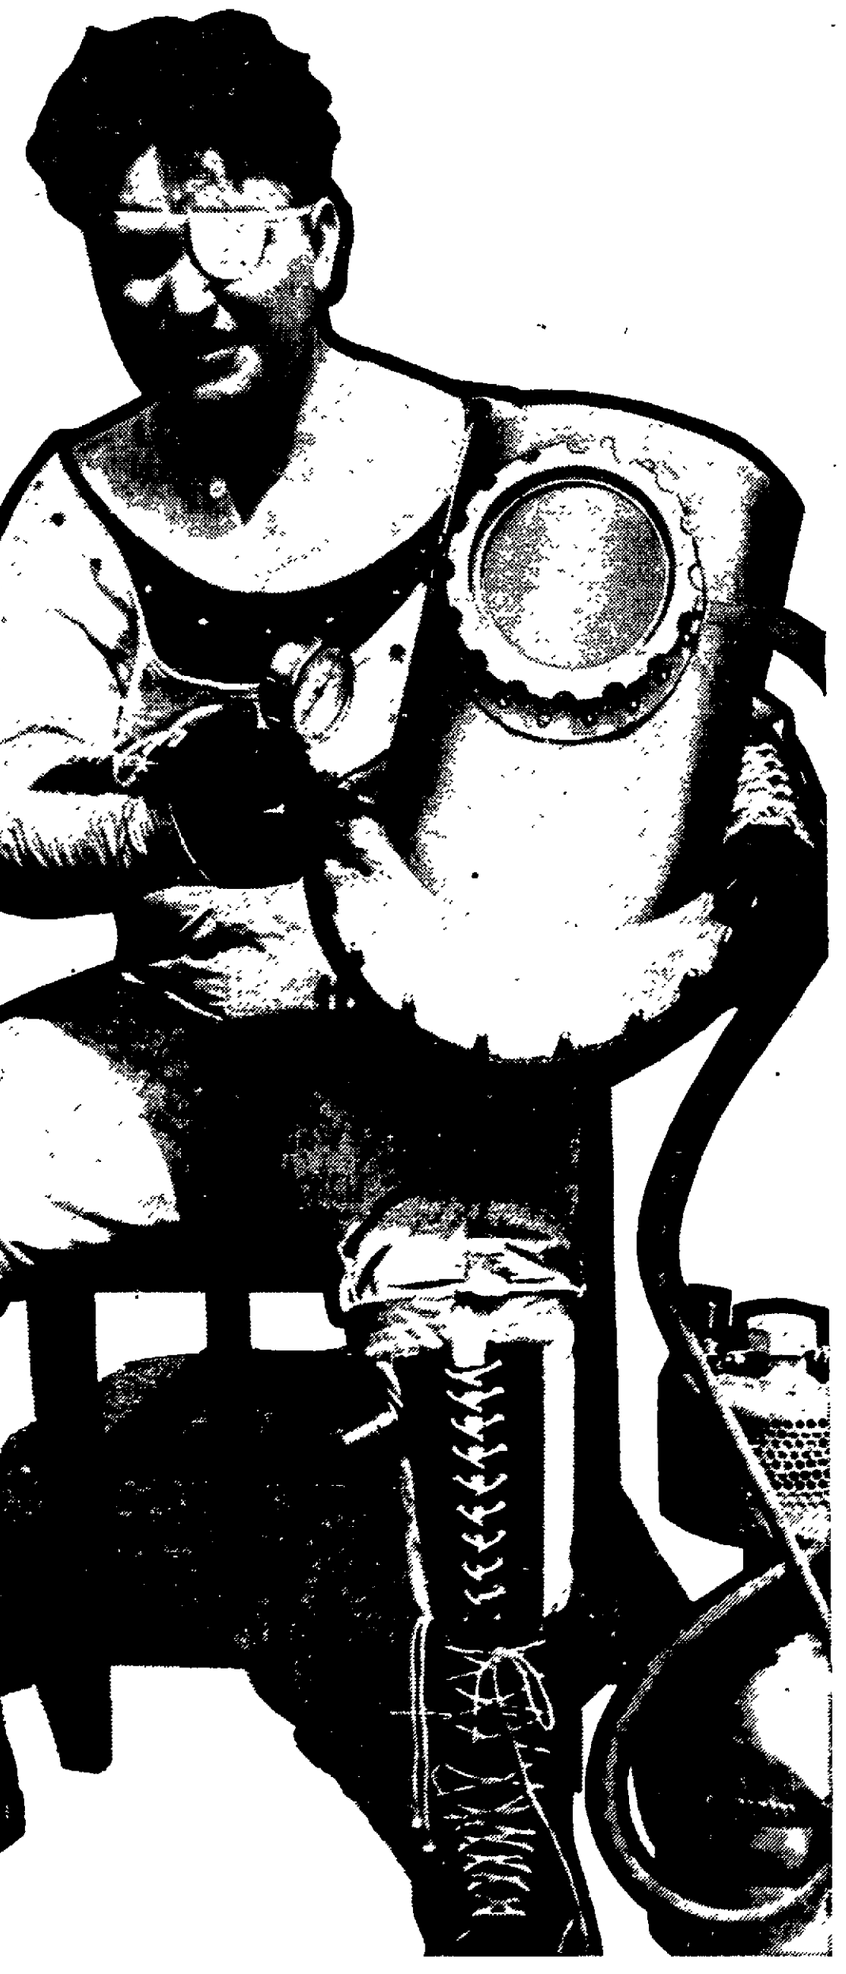
If extra fast starting, extra fast warm-up, extra power, extra anti-knock, and extra acceleration are worth an extra 2¢ a gallon to you, then we cordially invite you to try this airplane-type motor fuel.

Phillips reputation and record for pioneering major improvements in "gas" quality are back of our sincere belief that PHILLIPS 77 AVIATION is the finest gasoline that money can buy.

Please remember, it is Ethyl-ized to the limit. Hence its plus qualities are added value without added price, because PHILLIPS 77 AVIATION costs no more than any other Ethyl gasoline.

Try a tankful. Phill-up with PHILLIPS 77 AVIATION. And make the test tough by picking a biting cold day. You will promptly get the exciting news from your motor that, at last, you have found the truly outstanding and outperforming premium gasoline.





As this advertisement goes to press, unofficial figures credit the Winnie Mae with having climbed higher than any other commercial airplane. At the top of its flight, the motor was functioning perfectly at 70° below zero. This is the same ship in which Wiley Post twice circled the globe.

Swap of Jobs May Involve 'Big Ten' Coaches

Solem of Iowa Likely Successor to Hanley At Northwestern U.

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(AP)—Northwestern university was engrossed in its search for a new head football coach—who may turn out to be Ossie Solem of Iowa—today, while Dick Hanley started looking for another job.

Solem Under Consideration.

Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, Northwestern's athletic director, said the identity of Hanley's successor might be announced "early this week." He declined to give any names in connection with the search, but did not deny that Solem's name had been more than lightly mentioned. Wilson and Solem worked together for several years at Drake university, the former as athletic director and Solem as football coach.

OSSIE SOLEM

It was reported that a "trade" of coaches between Iowa and Northwestern might follow Hanley's resignation yesterday, with Solem moving to Evanston and the former Wildcat coach going to Iowa City. However, Prof. Clarence M. Updegraff, chairman of the Iowa athletic board, said he did not even know that Solem had any intention of leaving, much less that Hanley might come to Iowa.

Veenker Also Mentioned.

While Solem was considered the foremost candidate for the Northwestern vacancy, several others were mentioned. Among them were George Veenker of Iowa State college, a former assistant coach at Michigan; Dana X. Bible of Nebraska, who has expressed complete satisfaction with his present position; Paddy Driscoll, one of Northwestern's all-time gridiron heroes, and Waldo Fisher, former Wildcat star, who served under Hanley as head coach.

Hanley's formal resignation, virtually forced by the faculty athletic committee, was accompanied by little but praise from Dr. Walter Dill Scott, president of the university; members of the 1934 squad, and in a formal statement from the Chicago Alumni club of Northwestern university. Dr. Scott called Hanley "one of the greatest football coaches in America."

Zuppke Holds Record.

The passing of Hanley leaves Harry Kipke of Michigan as runner-up to Bob Zuppke of Illinois in years of service in the Big Ten. Hanley completed eight seasons at Northwestern, during which his teams shared the conference title twice. Kipke has been at Michigan as head coach for six seasons—a mark which does not threaten Zuppke's record of 22 years at Illinois.

After collaborating with Andy Kerr of Colgate in preparing the East All-Stars for the annual Shrine benefit game for crippled children at San Francisco New Year's day, Hanley plans to enjoy a three-weeks' vacation on the coast.

MAT PLATFORM SURE TO GROAN

Two-Thirds Ton of Beef Lined Up for Rassling Show at 4-H.

Beef on the hoof—two-thirds of a ton of it—will be on parade Wednesday night at the 4-H arena when the wrestlers resume their warfare with Limber John Pesek opposing Bulky Marin Plestina in the main event, a finish bout, two-falls-out-of-three. Plestina is the largest tugger to appear on a Lincoln mat since Tiny Roebuck, 290-pound Indian, exhibited here some months ago.

The card was completed with the Monday announcement that the New York City Slav, John Evko, would be back to exchange compliments with Ed "Bull" White of Birmingham, Ala., in the 30-minute semi-final, while Lee Wykoff, the Missourian who made a hit last week, takes on Don McIntyre of Topeka in the 20-minute curtain-raiser.

Former Alabama Gridman.

White, the only performer on the preliminary card new to Lincoln bugs, is another big lad. He tips the beam at some 235 pounds and possesses the barrel chest and powerful shoulders similar to Strangler Lewis, and, like the Strangler, uses a headlock as a powerful weapon. White was a lineman on the University of Alabama grid teams which made history some years back, appearing twice in the Rose Bowl festivities. White also won the southern amateur heavyweight title on the padded mat in 1927.

Evko, McIntyre and Wykoff all have been here before. Wykoff wrestles without shoes, but manages to keep his toes out from under his opponent's puppies without much trouble.

Sport Slants

By "Pap."

THE little "Toy Bulldog" has run down!

Mickey Walker is finished after 17 long years in the ring, and this is not surprising, but that he should have finished by Paul Pirrone is strange indeed!

Go back to the days when Pirrone was a young amateur boxer with scant thought of making a career of professional fighting. His idol was Mickey Walker. Walker's fighting poses decorated the walls of his room. He followed the New Jersey Irishman's career through the newspapers. When Mickey happened to be training in Cleveland, Paul was on hand to watch him work. He even tried to copy Walker's fighting pose and style.

Success in the amateurs paved the way for Pirrone's debut into the professional ranks. His first bout was the semi-final to the main bout between Tony Marullo and his hero—Mickey Walker.

SO ANXIOUS was Paul to see his favorite in action that, after his own bout, he merely tossed a bathrobe over his shoulders and remained at the ringside to watch the battle. It was one of the big thrills of his young life to see his idol pound out a decision over the rugged Marullo.

That moment never brought the thought that he would one day face Walker in the ring and one day stretch Walker on the floor for the count.

In putting an end to Walker's comeback effort, Pirrone established himself as one of the leading contenders for the middleweight title.

The Cleveland fighter has been staging quite a successful comeback on his own account. Little more than a year ago he offered no promise of future greatness. On the contrary, having been knocked out in seven consecutive battles, he appeared to be finished at the age of 21—just when he should have been starting on the upward trail.

THERE was nothing for him to do but quit the game after a string of defeats such as that. And quit he did! For 10 months he rested without even as much as the sight of a boxing glove. Then the urge to box a bit for the exercise got the better of him and the first thing he knew he was back in harness again. In a short time he was ready to take another fling at the game.

To start with he was matched with one Carl Montabamo, a rugged fellow from Pittsburgh. It took Paul only three rounds to polish him off.

That new start gave him the momentum which carried him to a match with his idol—and success!

YOU would never single out the tall, slim Vernon "Lefty" Gomez of the New York Yankees' pitching staff as the "Iron Man" of the baseball year.

And yet that is exactly the light in which the American league pitching records for the 1934 season show him.

"Iron Man" Gomez topped the league by pitching to 1035 batters in 282 innings. He won 26 games with an earned run average of 2.33. And hurled 25 complete games!

A grand record of skill and durability—and one which was not accomplished without cost. Gomez was a mighty tired athlete out there on the mound when the end of the 1934 season rolled around. A dozen pounds under his normal playing weight, he certainly looked as though he would welcome the winter layoff above all else.

Instead of seeking rest far away from baseball diamonds in which to regain the old vitality, Lefty hurriedly packed his bags and hastened to join the group of big league barn-stormers heading for Japan.

ALL through October and November and on up to the middle of December the party including Ruth, Gehrig, Foxx, Averill and other stars played exhibition games in the Far East, ending the tour with a series in Manila. Lefty Gomez pitched more than his share of the games, striking out an even dozen batters in the final game of the tour against a Philippine team.

With the exhibition tour out of the way, his vacation really begins. His party is to move on to Java and then continue around the world to New York. The old left arm will have a couple of months' rest before the spring training stunt begins.

Nine months is quite a stretch for a pitcher to keep his arm to the grindstone—even for a physical giant. And Lefty, with a top weight of 173 pounds spread over his 6 ft. 1½ inch frame is hardly a physical giant.

GOMEZ might do well to study the cases of Lefty Grove and Carl Hubbell. Two of the game's great lefthanded pitchers. Both were willing to pitch as often as called upon and practically pitched their teams to pennants. They, too, were "Iron Men." There is no denying that the strain of their efforts had much to do with their loss of effectiveness later on. And most likely shortened their mound careers.

For the three seasons preceding the one just completed, Gomez pitched a total of 743 innings to win 61 games. It takes a lot of pitching to do that!

Just how long can he go on working that slim left arm at such a terrific pace before it begins to show the wear and tear of the grind? But the 1934 records are in his favor. He again won the title of strike-out king of the American league, fanning 158 batters, five less than his 1933 mark.

And the official pitching records show that he clearly outclassed the highly publicized "Schoolboy" Rowe in effectiveness. Lefty finished on top of the pile, with Rowe down in eighth position. That doesn't leave much room for argument. You can't go beyond the records!

Football Or Bookkeeping?

At the end of each National Professional football league game, members of the Chicago Bears team are required to submit to Coach George Halas, a written detailed report on the play of the men they played against.

'BIFF' WEARY OF HUEY'S MEDDLING

L.S.U. Coach Fed Up On "Kingfish" and Talks of Resigning.

BATON ROUGE, La., Dec. 17—(INS)—Unless the dove of peace makes an early appearance, the paths of U. S. Senator Huey P. "My University" Long and Lawrence "Biff" Jones will have definitely parted, with the loss of a head football coach to Louisiana State university.

L. M. "BIFF" JONES

The issue between Head Coach Jones and Senator Long arose over who was to direct the L. S. U. football team during Saturday's game with the University of Oregon, which L. S. U. won by the narrow margin of 14 to 13.

Reports persisted today that Capt. Jones had resigned his post here as a result of the quarrel and will ask for another war department assignment. He became gridiron mentor here on orders of the war department. At any rate, Jones, although refusing to comment on his reported resignation, said he was "leaving town."

Said Senator Long: "The first I knew about any of this was when I read it in the papers. Jones is a fair coach. Some are good and some are not."

Put On Stomping Act.

The "Kingfish" of Louisiana politics, who has taken the football affairs of L. S. U. to heart this season, stomped up and down in front of the players' bench Saturday when Jones' team was trailing by two touchdowns. In a loud voice, he told the boys how the team should be run to win games.

Capt. Jones suddenly jumped up from the bench and ordered the "Kingfish" to leave the football coaching to the football coach.

Between halves, when the "Kingfish" tried to give the team a pep talk, Capt. Jones ordered Long away from the locker room and gave the players some advice of his own. L. S. U. came back in the second half to win by the single point.

FEUD REVIVED BY GIANTS, DODGERS

New York Leader Serves Notice Trio Can Play Spiking Game.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(INS)—The feud between the New York Giants and Brooklyn Dodgers was revived today, following Bill Terry's warning to the Dodgers to watch their step next season in the matter of Dick Bartell "or somebody will get hurt."

When with the Phillies last season, Shortstop Bartell aroused the ire of the Dodgers by spiking Linus Frey, Brooklyn rookie. Before leaving Saturday night for his home in Memphis, Manager Terry hinted that if the Dodgers try to "get" Bartell next season, the Giants will do some spiking or "dusting off" on their own hook.

Casey Stengel, pilot of the Dodgers, came right back today with the rejoinder that his club has a couple of bean-ball artists, too. He doubted, however, that the Bartell-Frey feud will be resumed.

INDIAN CAGERS GO ON WARPATH

Winnebago Rolls Up Top Total of Even Hundred Basket Points.

BY GREGG M'BRIDE.

The Winnebago Indians, boasting a high scoring basketball quintet last season, apparently are ready to go another rampage during the 1934-'35 campaign in Nebraska prep circles. Last March the Redskins were leading contenders for class B honors. This year Winnebago is in with another fine outfit, as is evidenced by a 100-11 victory over Hubbard in the opening game of the season.

The 100 points chalked up by Winnebago is one of the highest scores tallied by a Nebraska prep quintet in recent years. Bob Mallory, one of the leading tackles in northeast Nebraska competition during the fall campaign in football, set the scoring pace for the Indians with 27 points, 12 field goals and three gift tosses. Rice and Mansfield each rang the bell for 20 points.

Mead Again Shows Class.

Among the other high scoring outfits last week was Mead, always in the thick of the scrap for class B honors. Mead flattened the Nebraska Deaf, 66-14. Creighton Prep rolled up 41 points against nine by St. Patrick's of North Platte; Tilden bombarded the hoop in a 57-4 win over Clearwater.

Omaha North opened with a pair of victories, dumping the Deaf, 36-13 and tripping Papillion, 38-21. Benson looked good in squeezing past St Joseph Central 17-15 the evening after the Mizzou five had nipped Omaha Central, 22-20.

Omaha South flushed from a good season on the gridiron, shook Pete Galensusky loose for seven points and a 28-26 victory over Omaha Tech

Hastings lifted the lid by defeating Blue Hill, 26-16, and trimming Harvard, 25-12 in an evening's twin bill Grand Island lost, 20-21, to Ravenna CCC Crete Cardinals got away running with a 27-7 victory over Milford.

Kearney Conquers McCook.

In the Southwest conference, Kearney hit the road and returned with a victory over McCook, 30-17. North Platte won a low-scoring game from Grant, 9-7.

North Bend and Scribner retained top positions in the D-W-D league, North Bend walloped Valley, 40-14, to keep in the lead. Shelby won 37-31 from Stromsburg and Polk beat Henderson, 19-4.

Superior coped a 17-16 thriller from Fairfield and Hebron led Red Cloud, 25-12. Cowles won, 18-16, from Axtell and Franklin beat Riverton, 15-9.

Avoca a high scoring team last year, kept up its winning streak with a 25-17 victory over Murdock. Sacred Heart of Falls City bested Rulo, 14-10.

In the north central sector, Kilgore lost to Crookston, 32-36, after an extra period and then beat Ainsworth, 30-19.

West Point opened its northeast campaign with a 36-14 win over Howells. Coleridge beat Belden, 24-22, and Battle Creek, undefeated on the gridiron, moved indoors to win, 15-6, from Sacred Heart at North. Pierce won, 29-25, from Osmond.

The feature game on the Tuesday night prep card brings together Omaha South and Creighton Prep each undefeated in the Omaha race.

Tuesday Night Games.

Stiff Game In Sight For California Bears

HONOLULU, T. H., Dec. 17—(INS)—The University of Hawaii football team today loomed as a strong opponent for the University of California football squad, which the islanders meet here next. Unleashing a tricky aerial attack, Hawaii baffled the University of Denver team here Saturday and won by a score of 36 to 14.

POP TAKES PICKS FOR SUGAR BOWL

Warner Due Select Trio Temple U. Teams For Tulane Game.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 17—(AP)—The three Temple university football elevens he will lead into New Orleans against Tulane in the campaign to continue 1934's undefeated drive will be picked at the close of today's practice by Coach Glenn (Pop) Warner. Warner plans to wait until his men reach the southern training quarters at Baton Rouge, La., before sending them into scrimmage.

GLENN "POP" WARNER

The veteran coach was minus the services of one of his left ends, Mike Lorenz, this week, because of an attack of laryngitis.

Tulane Squad Begins Drills.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 17—(AP)—Tulane, with the general plan of taking things easy for the first few days, began practice today for its New Year's day Sugar Bowl football game with Temple.

Coach Ted Cox has issued a call for the entire varsity squad, out of training since its 14 to 13 victory over its traditional rival, Louisiana State, more than two weeks ago.

It was thought that two workouts a day would be held. Cox said the opening workouts would be light in nature, gradually speeding up to the date of the game. Freshmen were expected to come out toward the end of this week to furnish scrimmaging material.

Tulane has a stronger squad now than in many of its stages of preparation for games during the regular season. Two regular linemen, George and Bob Tessier, brothers, who were out for more than half of the season, will start with the others, but "Little Monk" Simons, star halfback, is not expected to be out for a few days.

'TINY'S' LINEUP STILL IN DOUBT

Thornhill's List Depends On Recovery of His Invalid Players.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal. Dec. 17—(INS)—The probable Stanford lineup for the Rose Bowl clash with Alabama was expected to be determined today.

The return or non-return of "Tiny" Thornhill's "sick Indians" to the practice field today will largely determine Stanford's winning chances.

Bobby Grayson, star fullback, and Monk Moscrip and Keith Topping, ends, were scheduled to be back at work today.

Grayson has been nursing torn rib cartilages, while the two ends have been out with injured knees: Frank Alustiza, quarterback; "Bones" Hamilton, halfback; and Claude Calloway, tackle, and several others were recovering from influenza.

Hard practice was to be the order from now on. Thornhill put his men through a stiff workout Saturday, after taking it easy for a week and a half while the gridmen went through their final examinations.

Tidemen Entrain Friday.

UNIVERSITY, Ala., Dec. 17—(AP)—Only four more workouts on the home field remained today for Alabama's unbeaten and untied football team before the Crimson Tide rolls west.

Coach Frank Thomas indicated the Tide might have one more rough scrimmage before entraining for Pasadena Friday and the Rose Bowl contest with Stanford's Indians on New Year's day.

Long workouts, with details on offense and defense, were certain as the Tide hopes to be prepared for any flanking attempts, aerial shows or straight power smashes, the Indians have cooked up for them.

Pro Football.

Fair Cue Expert Coming.

One of the most spectacular and interesting billiard exhibitions of the winter season can be witnessed Friday afternoon, Dec. 21, at the National Recreation Parlors, 1333 P street, when Miss Ruth McGinnis of Honesdale, Pa., appears in Lincoln in connection with the national "Better Billiards" program.

RUTH McGINNIS.

Miss McGinnis is the only feminine expert of the 21 stars who are at present touring the United States. She holds the world's title at pocket billiards in the women's professional class.

She has played the game practically since childhood, but during this time she has also found it possible to take a teacher's course in the Pennsylvania State Teachers college at East Stroudsburg, Pa., during which time she became adept in many lines of sport, such as fencing, swimming, track, golf, boxing and baseball. She is a southpaw at the billiard game.

In addition to meeting all comers during her appearance here, she will also devote some time to a series of fancy shots and to the instruction of a limited class of students. This is her second tour in connection with the "Better Billiards" program.

Uni. Club Banquet On Tuesday Slate

The final chapter of the University of Nebraska 1934 football season will be written Tuesday evening, when the Cornhusker coaching staff and varsity men will be guests of the Lincoln University club.

Major John L. Griffith, Big Ten athletic commissioner, is the main speaker and, as usual a crowded banquet room will greet the speaker and guests.

BARNEY BIG MAN OF FIGHT PLANS

Ross Signs Up Take On Canzoneri, McLarnin This Winter.

BY DAVIS J. WALSH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(INS)—Glumly impressed with the fact that even members of a man's immediate family can't be induced to watch him engage in a prize fight nowadays, the boys hereabouts are fixing to introduce the Follies Bergere motif into boxing this winter, somewhat along the lines of Mr. Baer's plan to play a doubleheader for the heavyweight championship. They're figuring on putting on their revue either at Miami or New York this winter, with the following program:

Barney Ross, the lightweight champion, vs. either Jimmy McLarnin, the welterweight champion, or Tony Canzoneri, the former lightweight champion.

Max Baer, the heavyweight champion, in a four-round exhibition batting fungoes off somebody's sodden features.

Buddy Baer, brother of Max, against some good reliable bum. They didn't say anything about a bicycle act.

Ross More Than Willing.

Ross, I believe, agreed to terms in Cleveland last week, accepting both Canzoneri as a challenger for the lightweight championship and himself as a challenger for McLarnin's welterweight title. If a Ross-McLarnin match is made, the promoters naturally will play it straight and do away with the floor show.

It would be the third meeting between this pair, McLarnin disagreeing with the judges the first time and Ross the second. Both fights drew more than 100,000 people in New York, which constitutes a pretty sound argument against Miami. They bet more than $30,000,000 on the horses and dogs down there last winter and paid only $45,000 for Carnera and Loughran. Proving what? Offhand, I couldn't exactly say except that you can't fool a dog-fancier.

Next Big Show at Boston.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—The approach of the Christmas holidays all but knocks out the boxing program this week, with the Boston Garden offering the only major show of the next six days.

Although such top-flight performers as Sammy Fuller, Boston lightweight, and Maxey Rosenbloom, New York's recently deposed light-heavyweight champion, appear on Boston Garden's Friday night program, an all-star cast of officials may take the play away from the boys who actually are in there swinging. Max Baer, current heavyweight champion, and Jack Dempsey and Jack Sharkey, both former holders of that title, will share referee duty.

Fuller, gunning for a chance at Barney Ross's lightweight championship, meets Bobby Pacho of Cleveland in one 10-rounder on the card, while Rosenbloom tackles Tony Shucco of Boston in another. Shucco dropped a 10-round decision to John Henry Lewis, Phoenix, Ariz., negro, at the New York Garden last week.

Buddy Baer, mammoth younger brother of the world's champion, meets Henry Surette of Leominster, Mass., in a six-rounder on the same card.

Golfers Move Over To Bahamas Tourney

NASSAU, Bahamas, Dec. 17—(AP)—Top-notch golfers entered in the $5,000 British Colonial open tournament, beginning tomorrow, tested their shots today in a tricky ocean wind.

Entry blanks, received today, from nine Nassau amateurs, including Governor Bede Clifford, increased the field to 60.

Favored to win the $500 first prize is Olin Dutra, United States open champion and low scorer last week in the Miami Biltmore open.

Schissler's Outfit Wins Sunday Game

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17—(INS)—The Chicago Cardinals, eastern professional footballers, defeated the Southern California Maroons, 41 to 7, before 12,000 fans in Gilmore stadium here yesterday.

Buddy Baer, kid brother of Champion Max Baer, claims he would rather be a singer than a prize fighter, and that he is boxing only to get money to pay for singing lessons.

The St. Louis Flyers, members of the American Hockey league, boast three sets of brothers on the team's roster.

Forty-one of the 43 members of the present football squad at Colorado State college of Agriculture are natives of the state.

Cornhusker Tossers Preparing for Clash With Iowa Thursday

Back from Laramie, where they opened the season by losing a 26-23 game to the University of Wyoming, the Nebraska Cornhuskers Monday set to the task of preparing for the first home game of the 1934-'35 campaign. Coach W. H. Browne's Huskers will tangle with the powerful University of Iowa quintet at the coliseum next Thursday evening.

Iowa Bowed To Pitt.

Although losing to the Cowboys, champions of the Rocky Mountain conference and runner-up in the 1934 A. A. U. carnival, the Cornhuskers showed considerable improvement over their performances last year. Scarlet stock is boosted accordingly and with a stiff program of outside games during the holidays, the Huskers are expected to be going full speed when they reach the conference schedule.

Hopes for a victory over the Hawkeyes Thursday night were a bit brighter Monday as a result of the defeat handed Iowa last Saturday by the Pittsburgh Panthers. Pit won, 38-26, indicating that the Hawks are far from being invincible.

Panthers Eastern Leaders.

It must be remembered, however, that Coach H. C. Carlson's Panthers are one of the great teams of the country, being favored this year to win a third consecutive Eastern Intercollegiate conference championship.

Taking a page from the football book Nebraska's basketball program at the coliseum will be well dressed up to make a well-rounded entertainment for the fans. The University of Nebraska band, under the baton of Professor Billy Quick, will open at 7:30 with a band concert. The tip-off is scheduled for 8 o'clock and, between halves, campus fraternities and sororities will sing songs.

Advance sale of season books, priced at $4 for 10 games, has been unusually good and indicates big crowds at the coliseum this winter.

In Capital City Basket Camps.

Greater Lincoln League.

All Greater Lincoln league teams will swing into action this week, prior to a two weeks' layoff during Christmas vacation, with three games bearing loop importance included on the slate. All teams but Cathedral will play games relating to the pennant chase and the Bluebirds are booked for two non-loop games.

Last week's play found two league teams, Cathedral and Teachers, cracking open the winter slate in a rather disastrous manner. Cathedral dropped a 13-7 decision to St. Patrick's of North Platte on a Lincoln floor and the next evening fell before Hickman, 18-11, when a belated rally broke a tie score. Teachers lost to Raymond, 22-7.

The feature game of this week's program sends Bethany to College View Saturday evening. College View, defending champion, is again favored to cop the crown, but Bethany is one of the two outstanding challengers. The other threat, Havelock, entertains Jackson high the preceding evening and should bump the inexperienced Crimson five. Lincoln Reserves play at Teachers high Thursday, while Cathedral is at Waverly the same day and at St. Mary's of Grand Island Friday night

The double round-robin play in the league has been abandoned this season. Each team must meet every other league team at least once, but may play home-and-home if desirous of doing so. Unlike the plan of two seasons ago, however, this year all games count instead of just one game between the same teams. Present schedules show that Bethany, College View, Havelock and Jackson all are playing each other twice, but the other three members—Lincoln Reserves, Teachers and Cathedral—have but one game each with the league opponents.

'EKKY' TOP HORSE IN WEIGHT TABLE

Whitney Steed Must Lug 130 Pounds In Santa Anita Classic.

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN.

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 17—(AP)—Equipoise, whose turf laurels are legend, will discover when he sets foot on Southern California soil today that he has been assigned top weight of 130 pounds for the last race of his career, the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap here Feb. 23.

The six-year-old chestnut of the Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney stable, shipped here to seek the title of world's richest money winner with a victory in the classic of the winter calendar, was burdened with this impost by Racing Secretary Webb A. Everett late Saturday.

Next in line was Cavalcade, great three-year-old which won the Kentucky Derby last May and then went on to take the American Derby, Detroit Derby and Arlington Stakes, with 129 pounds.

Twenty Grand at 126.

Twenty Grand, a former opponent of "Ekky" recently brought out of retirement, and Statesman, Victor Emanuel's entry from Great Britain, were listed at 126 pounds. Mate, just back from a rather uncertain campaign of Europe, and Faireno of the Belair stud were given 120 pounds in the boot.

Mr. Khayyam and Time Supply followed with 118 each. Then Ladysman, Head Play, Azucar and Gusto with 117 pounds.

Equipoise has earned $338,450 in three years of highly successful racing. With approximately $112,000 expected to go to the winner here, he would easily surpass Sun Beau's $376,744 total if he crossed the wire in front.

Amateur Basketball.

CHURCH LEAGUE.

Games due for settlement in the usual Monday evening play in the Church league have been scheduled for Thursday Dec 20, instead of Monday. They will be played on the Jackson high floor.

Eight City league teams will blow the lid off the new season Monday evening when the recreation board's loop goes into action on the Everett junior high court Unl. Place Wildcats meet Bethany at 7 o'clock in the curtain-raiser, with Wheatley Aces and Minks sandwiching halves 20 minutes later. The other games booked for 8:20 and 8:40, bring together St Mary's vs Tigers and Ramblers vs. West Lincoln

Indoor Golf School By Les Davies at Y

Les Davies, professional at Eastridge, will conduct a golfing school at the Y. M. C. A. again this winter, starting Dec. 26. Lessons will be by appointment and Davies will be available at all times during the day and evening. Davies conducted the school last winter and will have the same "office," the second floor of the building.

BID FOR GAMES BY SUTTON TOSSERS

SUTTON, Neb., Dec. 17—Manager Melvin Norlin of the Paris Cafe basketball team of Sutton is anxious to book games for the winter season.

WOMEN'S TOURNEY AT MINNEAPOLIS

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—The United States Golf association today announced award of the 1935 women's national championship to the Interlachen Country club of Minneapolis, and the dates Aug. 26-31.

LARGER STAKES IN TURF SPORT

Legalized Betting Has Brought Prosperity To Racing.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—Keen competition for the patronage of the increasing racing public has borne fruit in announcement of larger stakes for the 1935 racing season.

Officials of New York tracks, perhaps perturbed by losses of customers to new courses in New England, have increased the endowments of several important handicaps.

Advices from Louisville are to the effect the Kentucky Derby will have $40,000 added next year, an increase of $10,000 over the 1934 figure.

The amazing popularity of racing in sectors where betting has recently been legalized, notably New England, Michigan and Florida, is offset somewhat by the decline of interest in places where racing long has been a fixture, and the older tracks appear determined to do something about it. By attracting the better horses, they argue, the gate receipts will increase.

Detroit Spread It On Thick.

Detroit, although accused of trying to kill the goose that laid the golden egg, offered a race meeting of 120 days' duration this year and got away with it. Florida has seen lively interest in the "sport of kings." The Florida derby stake has been boosted from $10,000 added to $15,000.

California, as a racing center, has not yet had a true test. The Bay Meadows track was forced to compete at first with fevered interest in intercollegiate football, but prospects for the Santa Anita meeting, with a $100,000 handicap offered, appear bright.

Illinois racing lost some ground during 1934, Texas meetings have made a fair showing and Louisiana tracks expect a profitable season. Maryland racing profits, track managers contend, have been seriously reduced by state taxation.

BOWLING

LINCOLN ELKS WIN MATCH

The Elks of Lincoln won two of three games from the Omaha Elks in a special match at Omaha Sunday and upset 2,974 pins to 2,920 for the Omahans. Folgelson of Lincoln and Dahlheimer of Omaha each toppled 622 pins during the series and Brainard's 247 was the best one-game effort. Score

FURTHER AID TO SCHOOLS SOUGHT

Taylor Has Hopes Of $200,000 Grant By U.S. Government.

After conferring with national relief administration officials and National Commissioner of Education Studebaker at Washington several days ago, State Supt. Charles W. Taylor came back to Nebraska with hopes of securing $200,000 as additional federal aid for rural education in this state. North and South Dakota and Arkansas have been given considerable financial assistance of that kind already, Mr. Taylor learned.

While in Washington he called on two former state superintendents of Nebraska, J. W. Crabtree and A. O. Thomas, who have adjoining offices in the national educational association building. Crabtree is about to retire as secretary of the NEA, and Thomas is acting as executive head of an international educational organization.

Princess Barbara Gives $5,000 to Assure Merry Christmas for the Poor

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—A real-live princess, Barbara Hutton Mdivani, stepped out of her story-book existence today to assure a merry Christmas for 10,000 needy.

In response to an open letter from E. Sullivan, Broadway columnist for the Daily News—a letter that made her cry—she contributed a $5,000 check for a "Princess Barbara Christmas dinner" for New York's poor children and their parents.

"Friends of mine tell me that you are a pretty swell girl," Sullivan said in his letter.

"I've got an idea that will make it possible for quite the grandest Christmas that you've ever enjoyed. How about establishing an annual Princess Barbara Christmas dinner for some of the poor of New York City?

"Come on, Princess, what do you say?"

The prinecess said it with a check.

Three Slightly Hurt In Headon Collision

Three persons were injured, none seriously, when cars driven by Al Vanberg of Wymore and J. C. Troutwine of Beatrice collided headon about 2 miles north of Princeton Sunday evening. Vanberg suffered a fractured nose and cuts on the face and leg. He was attended by Dr. Lynn Sharrar in Lincoln. Mr. and Mrs. Troutwine were bruised and cut. They were attended by Dr. F. T. Schowengerdt of Cortland. Witnesses said the crash occurred as the Troutwine car was passing a truck.

State Receives $702 Tax, Dolezal Estate

A payment of $702 as inheritance tax from the estate of the late Frank Dolezal of Fremont, formerly of Wahoo, who served as state senator in 1925, has been received by State Tax commissioner Smith from the executor and been turned into the state treasury for the general fund.

Dolezal died January 3, 1934, leaving property valued in gross at $244,258. The net taxable amount was found to be $132,829. Of the gross inheritance levy of 2,485, the United States government will receive $497 and the remainder goes to counties where the beneficiaries reside.

Two hundred thousand dollars of the Dolezal estate was in stocks and bonds, $37,178 in mortgages, cash, and insurance; $7,000 in real estate; and $80 was represented by small items.

Metals, Some Utilities And Specialties Find Following, But Stock List As Whole Inactive

N. Y. Exchange Closes Steady

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—

The metals, some of the utilities and scattered specialties found following in today's stock market, but the list, as a whole, held to a rather narrow range. News incentives were scarce and speculative operations of a highly cautious character. The close was steady. Transfers approximated 920,000 shares.

The stock market showed some signs of climbing out of the rut today, although the majority of dealings were still of a highly selective nature.

Scattered specialties developed strength, along with some of the metals, and a few utilities displayed a better tone than in several weeks past. Improvement throughout the remainder of the list, however, was only moderate and the trading volume was not greatly enlarged.

There was little change in the market picture, generally. A number of prime bonds edged into new high ground for 1934 or longer, but price changes in this list were small. Most of the grains were inclined to dip and cotton did virtually nothing. Foreign exchanges were mixed. Sterling was heavy, while the gold currencies were a bit improved. The Shanghai dollar was reactionary on rumors that the Chinese government was considering devaluing this exchange 25 per cent.

New tops for the year were recorded by shares of Philip Morris, McCrory stores and Interboro Rapid Transit with advances of about a point each. American Woolen preferred moved up nearly 3 points, U. S. Smelting was 2 higher, and American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco and Howe Sound were fractionally to more than a point firmer. North American and Consolidated Gas were around a point each better, while American Water Works, American Telephone, Public Service of New Jersey and Western Union were improved. Celanese, General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, Hudson Motor, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, Loew's and Liggett & Myers B showed modest gains. The rails were almost unchanged and the oils were easier.

Attention was attracted to several of the power stocks following application of the Consolidated Gas organization for increased rates to take care of a substantial increase in emergency taxes.

Some activity in the metals was attributed to a mild revival of inflationary psychology based partly on the belief that the next congress, at least, will give this subject serious consideration despite efforts of administration leaders to tone down radical currency talk.

While highest grade bonds have been holding around their best levels in several years, thus indicating to some financial observers that fear of drastic inflation is not an important factor at this time, a few commentators still cling to the belief that an inflation market of a type has been under way since September. These argue that government spening and the huge expansion of credit are prime ingredients for inflation, that there is little likelihood of the budget being balanced and that final debt repudiation, by way of the money printing presses, is more than a possibility.

Aside from other considerations, however, proponents of advancing equity prices contend taht the general economic improvement is the principal sustaining force in the market. The argument here is that the materialization in the near future, of more promising business tendencies may well put congressional uncertainties in the background and greatly reduce the pressure for further legislative experiments.

NEW YORK BOND REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—

The bond market carried over from last week its indecisive trend, and during the early trading today prices moved narrowly in all sections of the list.

There was no immediate reaction to the order of the Federal Reserve board for a reduction from 3 per cent to 2½ per cent in the interest rate on time and savings deposits by reserve member banks. Most prime issues were firm, but there were no indications of an especially active buying interest.

U. S. government issues improved a little and there was a fair turnover in treasury 3s of 1946-48 around 100.20, up 2 32ds of a point, and in Federal farm mortgage 3s around 99.6, up 4 32ds. Similar gains were made by some of the other treasuries and home loan 3s.

There was a demand for Union Pacific 4s which rose from par to 100⅜, making a net gain of a point over Saturday's finish.

Lower prices ruled in several of the important foreign groups. Polish 7s yielded 1¾ and Uruguay 6s dropped about a point. Italian 7s and German 5½s were down fractionally. Canadian loans were firm.

NEW YORK CURB REVIEW.

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—

The general tone of the curb market was slightly improved today, although there was some irregularity in utilities and oils. Industrials and specialties were in better demand. Trading was moderately active.

Sherwin Williams forged ahead in aggressive manner to a new high for the year at 90, up 2 points on the day and gains of 1 to 2 were made by Pittsburgh Plate Glass, Pepperell Mfg., Carrier Corp. and Montgomery Ward "A".

American Gas and Electric Bond & Share each were around ½ points higher, but other utilities, including Cities Service, American Super Power and Niagara Hudson, were either unchanged or slightly lower. Alcohols were narrow and quiet with leaders like Hiram Walker and Distillers Corp. Seagrams unchanged.

Sales

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(AP)—Sales of the Jewel Tea Co., for the four weeks ended December 1 totaled $1,468,321, an increase of 17.7 per cent over the $1,248,126 for the same weeks in 1933, the company announced today. Sales of the first 48 weeks of 1934 totaled $15,729,060 compared with $13,097,171 for the same period a year ago.

Dividends

NEW YORK, Dec. 17—(AP)—Directors of the Sperry Corp. have declared an initial dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable December 29 to holders of record December 26.

Grain Values Pushed Down

CHICAGO, Dec. 17—(AP)—

For the first time since Dec. 4, May wheat today droped to below $1 a bushel.

Liberal imports of Canadian feed wheat together with a disappointing exhibit made by the United States wheat visible supply total today had an evident bearish influence. The visible decreased only 702,000 bushels, against 1,750,000 bushels a decrease a week ago and 2,372,000 bushels decrease at this time last year.

Wheat closed weak at the day's bottom level, 1⅜-2 cents under Saturday's finish, May 99-99⅛c, corn 1-1⅛c down, May 87½-⅝c, oats 1 cent to 2 cents off, and provisions unchanged to an advance of 2 cents.

Material downturns of wheat prices early today in Chicago followed evidence of decided weakness of the Liverpool market. Fears of importation of foreign grains tended to emphasize bear sentiment. Opening ¼-⅝c lower, May $1.00⅜-$1.00½, Chicago wheat futures continued downgrade. Corn started ⅜-⅝c off, May 88⅛-¼c, and subsequently sagged further.

Word of increased stocks to wheat at Liverpool and of favorable weather for crops in Argentina, with Canada losing export business rapidly as compared with last year, served to put wheat sellers in a majority here. More than a cent a bushel setback for wheat was soon witnessed. Commission houses were fairly active sellers, and some stop loss orders were forced into execution by the fall of prices.

Standing orders to buy wheat at around the dollar mark for May contracts were effective, however, in checking declines. Bulls contended that a broad view of the one billion to two billion bushels 1934 domestic grain crop deficit made relatively small imports look trifling. Talk was current also that it is usual for wheat to score a good advance beginning just before Christmas and carrying well into the new year. Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness.

Provisions advanced, responsive to higher prices on hogs.

About midsession, wheat was ⅝-¾c lower compared with Saturday's finish, and corn was ⅜-½c off.

Corn receipts in Chicago today were 168 cars, a week ago 148, and a year ago 230.

Grain Notes

CHICAGO, Dec. 17.—(AP)—Most traders believe the action of foreign markets will largely determine the trend in the markets of this country so far as wheat is concerned. Importations of wheat were recently curtailed by most foreign countries despite the unfavorable condition of the Argentine crop. Belief has been expressed by Broomhall, however, that more of the grain will be purchased this season by importing countries. Prices last week fluctuated widely on the local market during the evening up process preceding the holidays. Normally the evening up process does not extend so far into the month.

Shipments this season have been smaller than those of a year ago. Statisticians looked for big drop today in on-passage stocks with a further decrease in shipments. However, the trend has been in that direction for several weeks without materially influencing the sentiment of foreign buyers.

Weakness developed in the corn market last week and the demand for the grain in the country was comparatively lighter. Prices were about 6 cents a bushel below the high level for the present advance and a number of leading bull operators disposed of long lines some of which were purchased for 75 cents a bushel for the May. Sales have been started for shipment of corn from the new Argentine crop to the United States at a price below that of the domestic deferred contracts.

Two Men Fined $25 On Shoplifting Charges

Two of four men charged with petit larceny following a series of shoplifting attempts Saturday, pleaded guilty in Municipal court Monday morning. Charles Barker pleaded guilty to taking a fountain pen from Gold and company and was fined $25 and costs. William Groth, 46, who gave his address 1010 West First street, was given a similar fine when he pleaded guilty to taking three caps from Gold and company.

Frank Nelson and Frank Lindsay, transients, pleaded not guilty to taking a leather jacket and two pairs of trousers from Sears Roebuck and company, and a sweater from Montgomery Ward. Trial was set for December 21 with bond at $500.

Charles Haller Begins Farm Census Duties

Charles M. Haller, recently named superviser for the first district agricultural census, opened his new quarters on the fourth floor of the postoffice building Monday morning.

Actual enumeration work, however, will not get under way until January 2. In the meantime an office force must be organized and a working plan set up. Haller's district comprises all of the counties in the first congressional district plus Fillmore, Jefferson, Polk, Saline, Thayer and York counties.

Haller, during the past year, has been supervisor in charge of the Lancaster county corn-hog association. His duties will be taken over by Dale Weese of the present corn-hog county staff. Haller was raised on a farm near Culbertson buf has lived in Lincoln a number of years last past.

"I think we're being followed!"

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Strange as it seems, the Mason-Dixon line, traditional line that separates the North from the south, is looked upon largely as an imaginary line—yet it can be seen very plainly from the air. The line, which follows a true compass course, is seen every day by passengers on the Pennsylvania Airlines flying between Washington and Pittsburgh.

Through wooded tracts the line is actually cleared away to a width of 20 yards, and in other places it can be seen as the boundary of fields and orchards.

The original line was surveyed between 1763 and 1767 to settle a dispute between the Penn family and the Lords Baltimore.

Before the Matrimonial Clause Act went into effect, January 1 1858, it required an Act of Parliament to obtain a divorce in England. There was, before that time, no common law jurisdiction in matrimonial clauses, and the only way to dissolve a marriage was by annulment.

Sawdust makes an excellent cattle food when properly treated, according to results of experiments conducted not long ago by the U. S. department of Agriculture in the past products laboratory at the University of Wisconsin. The sawdust is cooked under pressure with sulphuric acid, which converts part of the cellulose and other substances into sugar

CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Shop Here and Get Part of It . . . . .

Here's the Rules

Every day we will publish a different unfinished rhyme. Read the "Gift Center" ads and select an article from them to use in making your own last line. Then clip this square, fill in your line, or write the whole rhyme on a piece of paper and mail to the Want Ad Contest Editor, the Lincoln Newspapers, giving at the same time the name of the dealer from whose ad you make the selection and why.

NO. 17

A Christmas Tree is a beautiful sight,
With toys, and gifts and everything,
We'll all sing carols on Christmas Night.

Watch for a new rhyme tomorrow and each day until Christmas.

The best jingle on each day's contest judged for originality, and neatness will win a $2.00 merchandise order on a "Gift Guide" Advertiser. Answers to each day's contest must be in our hands by 4 p. m. on the second business day following. Send in as many answers as you care to. Every one eligible except employees of this paper and their families.

A SPECI

Calendar Is Crammed With Interesting Social Events

Dinners, Weddings, Luncheons And Gay Parties Galore Are Listed For This Week And Next; Approach Of Holidays Brings Many Plans.

WELL, the week seems to be off to a flying start—A dinner tonight — a wedding Tuesday night — a luncheon Wednesday—a tea Saturday afternoon—a dinner Saturday evening—a tea Sunday afternoon and a buffet supper Sunday evening. Thursday and Friday seem to be the only days we have missed—and probably there are parties on those days and we just haven't heard about them—

There are things on the calendar for next week, also—quite gay and lovely parties, most of them for the young set, but a few for the slightly older group.

TONIGHT'S activity includes the prenuptial dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Throop will preside at the University club, honoring their daughter, Miss Mary Katharine Throop, and her fiance, W. P. McDonald. Dinner places will be arranged for twenty guests, including the members of the two families and the bridal party, at a table attractively appointed in a motif of blue and silver. The centerpiece will be a long, rectangular shaped silver basket filled with white Garza Supreme chrysanthemums, white snapdragons and stevia. At each end of the table will be silver holders with tall blue tapers, tied with blue and silver chiffon ribbons. The place markers will be formal bouquets of gardenias and lilies of the valley, tied with silver ribbon.

Out of town guests at the dinner will include Mrs. James H. Powell of Ottumwa, Ia., and Mrs. O. S. Calhoun of Birmingham, Ia.

IT WOULD APPEAR that a certain young swain in Lincoln had better mend his manners—We hear that the young man writes frequently to a most attractive and popular young lady in Omaha, Miss Mary Updike, by name. BUT, can you believe it? Every so often Miss Updike gets a list of all of the words she has misspelled in her letters, an idea which doesn't get over in a big way at all. That never will do, Edward—send her an old fashioned "speller" instead.

* * *

HEARD THIS morning that Miss Dorothy Raymond, who is spending the holidays in Lincoln, will have the first of a series of small luncheons Wednesday, at the home of Mrs. Maurice Deutsch.

* * *

HERE'S NEWS from Costa Rica—a little old, but still news so far as we are concerned. Major and Mrs. Arthur Harris (Helen Curtice Abbott) hied themselves off for a trip around South America several weeks ago, and dropped post cards to Nebraska friends while en route. They spent Thanksgiving day in Panama.

Mrs. Ross P. Curtice, mother of Mrs. Harris, and her two small granddaughters, Frances and Helen Abbott, will sail February 14, for Costa Rica.

THIS WEEK-END will bring many of the school set home—Miss Janet Lau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Lau, and Elizabeth Waugh, daughter of Sam Waugh, will arrive Friday morning from Dana Hall—And Saturday morning Miss Martha Beghtol returns from Emma Willard school at Troy, N. Y—And we might add that next Wednesday evening, Miss Beghtol is to take part in the annual Yulelog Revels at Emma Willard. She will be one of the lancers in the Nativity episode, who, in Oriental dress, escort the Kings of the Orient on their pilgrimage to the manger.

AND AT Oberlin college, Oberlin, O., Miss Dorothy Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peterson of Lincoln, is also doing things. Miss Peterson appeared in recital recently, when she played the violin in Haydn's String Quartet in G major, allegretto and finale.

CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR FLORISTA CLUB

Mrs. Perry Jennings will be hostess at a Christmas party Tuesday afternoon, for the Florista club. Sixteen guests will be seated at one table made attractive with Christmas decorations. Guests will include Mrs. J. E. Hanna, Mrs. Leonard Thies and Miss Arline Stone.

PRESENT MRS. THAYER PORTRAIT TO MANSION

Mrs. C. W. Bryan, who has been collecting the portraits of wives of former Nebraska governors for the executive mansion, had been unable to secure a picture of Mrs. John M. Thayer, whose husband sreved from 1887 to 1891. Twenty-three of the two dozen likenesses have been brought from family albums and drawers in the last two years—but one was missing.

Reading the story on the collection in the Sunday Journal and Star, George T. Underwood noticed the mention of Mrs. Thayer. He and Mrs. Underwood recalled that they could supply the omission with a portrait taken in the late 80's in North Bend, when the then General Thayer was campaigning for the governorship and he and Mrs. Thayer called on the Underwood family. They have presented the likeness to Mrs. Bryan, and it shows the first lady in a seal jacket and little bonnet.

ESTHER COLE WED TO DR. HARRY L. FRANKLIN

The marriage of Miss Esther Cole, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. V. Cole of Peru, and Dr. Harry Lee Franklin of Lexington, Ky., took place November 29 at 5 o'clock, with the Rev. Olaf Anderson of the South Frankfort Presbyterian church officiating at the home of Miss Rebecca Averill in Frankfort. Dr. and Mrs. Franklin will reside in Lexington.

The bride took her master's degree at Nebraska and her doctorate at Brookings institute in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Franklin has taught at Hunter college, New York City, and has been assistant professor of political science at the University of Kentucky. Dr. Franklin, who took his doctor's degree at the University of Leipzig a year ago, formerly was connected with the American consular service

NAMID CLUB DINNER DANCE THIS EVENING

Members of the Namid club are having their Christmas dinner dance this evening at the Avalon party house, when forty-five will be present. White Christmas trees and crimson tapers will be used on the table, and one large and several smaller decorated trees are to carry out the holiday theme in the room. One novelty and one favor dance have been planned. Guests of the evening will be Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Shickley, Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Gibbons, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Tackett, Mr. and Mrs. Homan Loosbrock, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bateen, Dr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Riggs, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Painter of Omaha.

BETA CHAPTER PLANS CHRISTMAS PARTY

Phi Delta Theta Plans Dinner For McLaughlin

A delegation from the Nebraska chapter of Phi Delta Theta is expected to attend a dinner to be given at Omaha Thursday evening honoring Charles F. McLaughlin, '12, recently elected congressman from the second Nebraska district. Between 300 and 400 will attend the affair, which is in charge of J. Bayles Spain of Omaha.

Honored guests will include Vic Halligan of North Platte, Nebraska All-American gridder who played in 1912, 13 and 14; Larry Linquist of Des Moines, a one-time Nebraska pole vaulter; Lewis Anderson, a former track team captain; Lum Doyle, a former Husker gridder; and many other Lincoln business men.

The program will include motion pictures shown by Ed Weir, and comments by Fred Ware and Ralph Wagner.

Tour Park Plant

Members of the park advisory board Monday afternoon made a tour of the entire park plant, accompanied by Chet Ager, park executive, following a luncheon at his home at noon. The members of the board are Tom C. Woods, chairman; J. D. Lau, R. M. Joyce, Robert L. Ferguson, Joe W. Seacrest, J. E. Lawrence, and Mrs. Fred W. Putney, L. C. Oberlies, head of the park department, joined the party after the meeting of the city council.
